Foreword

From the dawn of civilization man has constantly been moving forward to improve his way of life. Century by century historians have been able to measure the cultural development of an age by comparing the improvements with those of a previous century.

Many of these improvements were made possible through the constant forward force of education. Because of this continual advancement, man had been able to delve into depths never before known to the human race.

In every century education has attempted to fulfill the needs of the time. Today in this fast-moving world of atomic research, consumer goods and intricate gadgets, education must be constantly moving forward.

American education is unique in its effort to educate the masses and to provide for the underprivileged, but a way must be found to keep this uniqueness, and still do a great deal more for our academically talented youth.

During the past year Russia has issued a tremendous challenge to the educational system of the United States. Educators all over the nation have been awakened to the fact that, while the United States has been accomplishing much with its educational system, certain important phases have been neglected. With the recognition of this "defect" came the question, is our country producing the type of scholarship needed to meet this challenge of the Space Age?

Suddenly schools have placed a new importance on mathematics and science in hopes of producing more qualified leaders in the various fields of scientific research. Languages have also been given an increased emphasis in an attempt to break down the language barrier which exists between nations.

What is our school doing to meet the present demands of education? The "Pioneer" staff has in the following pages, attempted to recognize the efforts our administration, faculty, and students have made towards the progression of education.

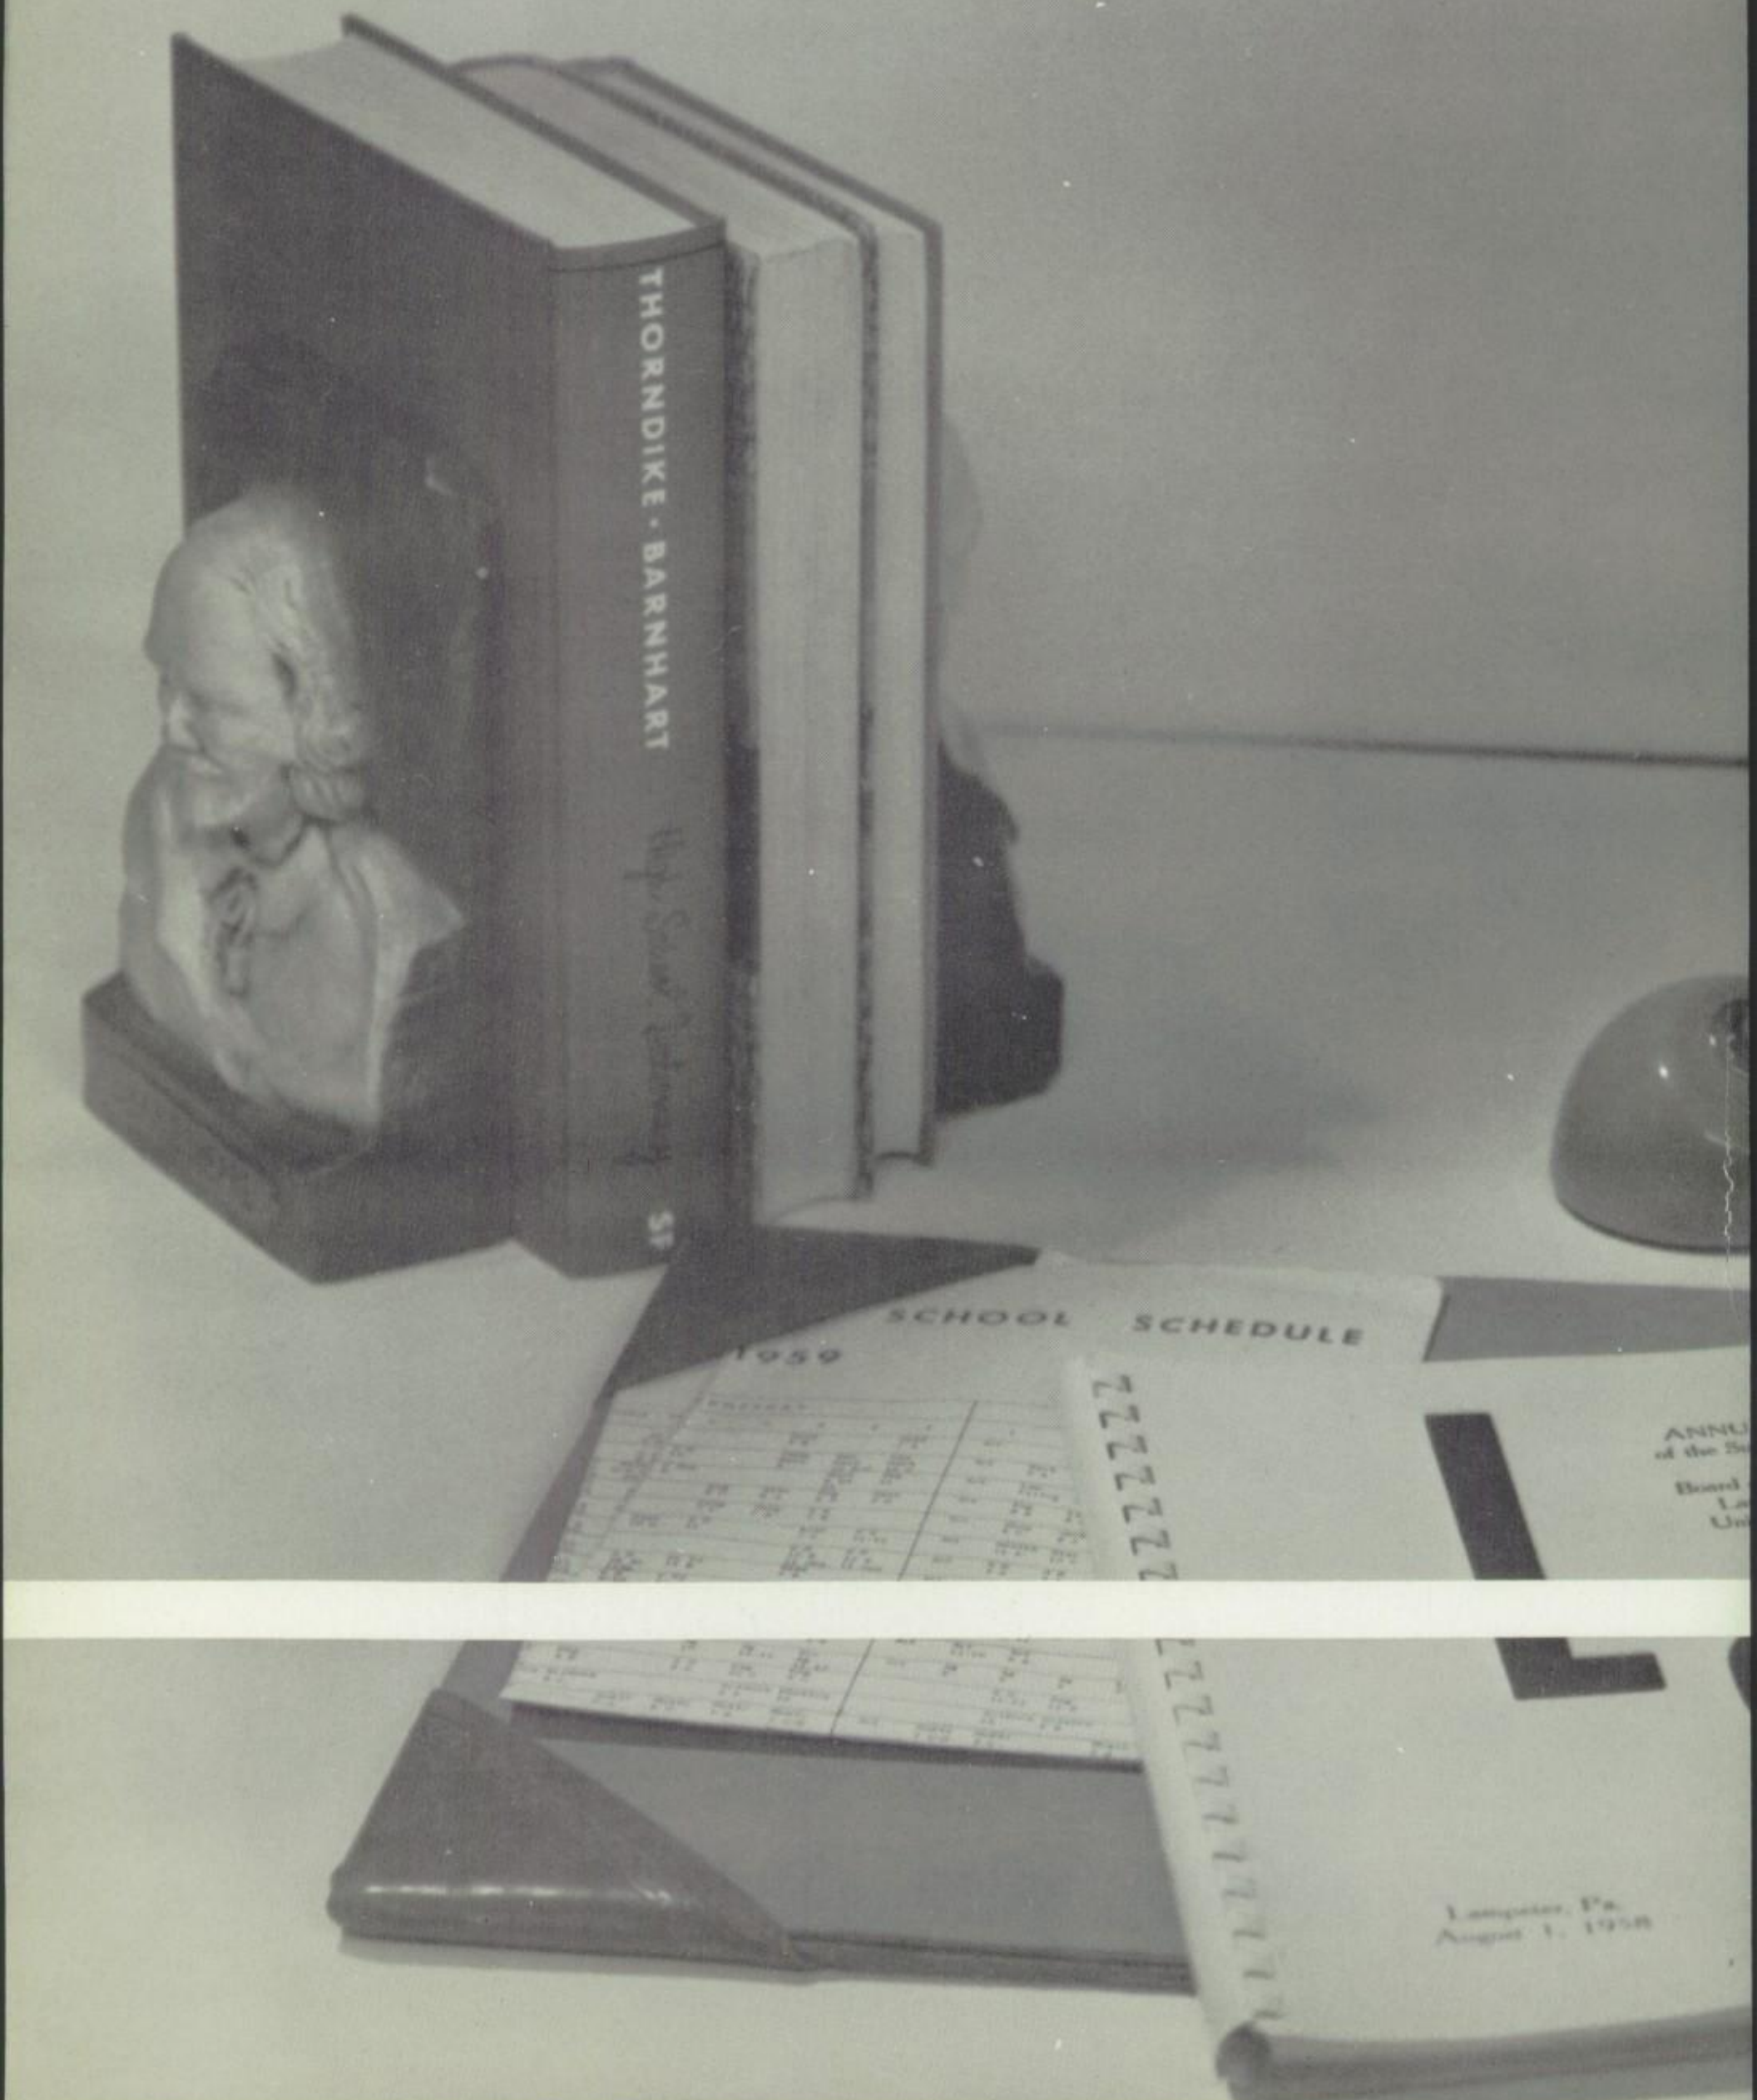
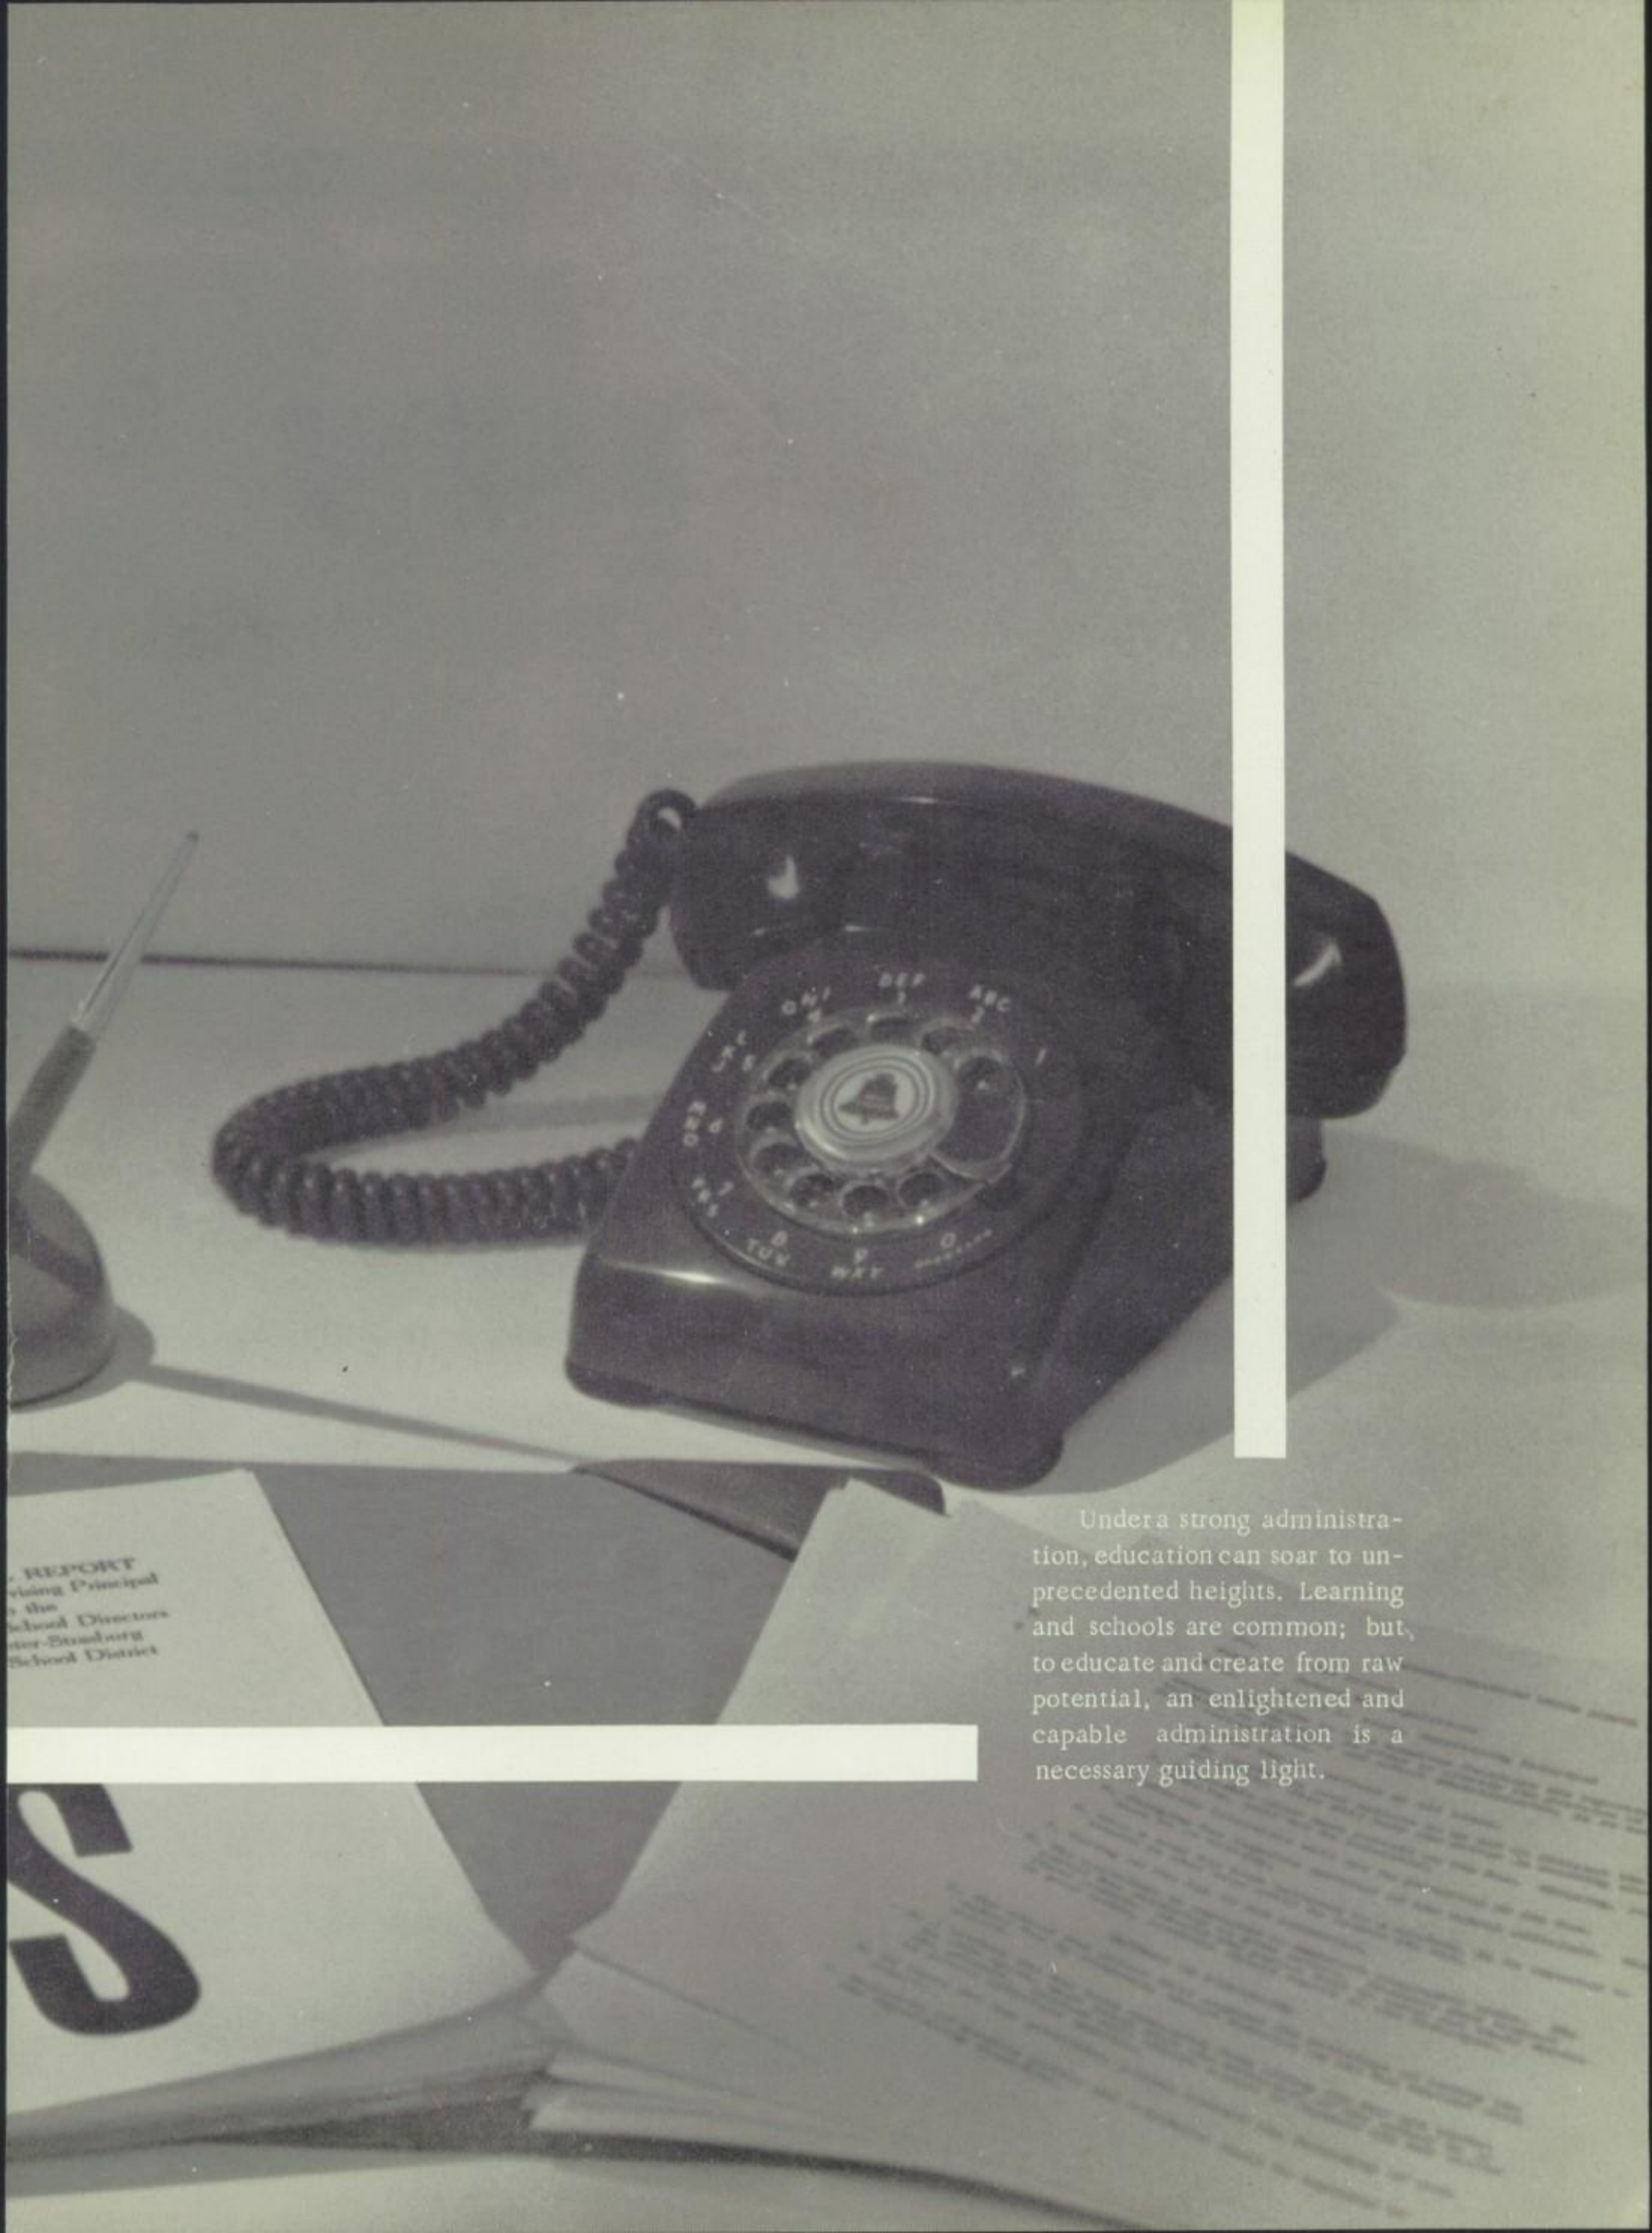
ADMINISTRATION





Under a strong administration, education can soar to unprecedented heights. Learning and schools are common; but, to educate and create from raw potential, an enlightened and capable administration is a necessary guiding light.

School Board Serves As a Governing Symbol

Raymond H. Rohrer, vice-president; John H. Hollinger, treasurer; Harry T. Houser, secretary; E. Day Ressler, president.

Gentlemen serving on the school board are rarely seen in person by the students; thus their true personalities often remain unknown. However, they serve as a symbol for the sturdy framework of the ladder of high school education.

Since these are the figures who govern the school, they set the policies, approve the rules and regulations, establish the curriculum, and provide for the maintenance and general upkeep of the school building.

William M. Musser, Jr., E. Day Ressler, Harry T. Houser, John H. Hollinger, Clyde K. Mylin, Raymond H. Rohrer, S. Dale Kaufman, Clarence Herr.

Supervising Principal Stresses Perpetual Education

To the Class of 1959:

With the launching of the Atlas, the whole world has gained a new respect for America and its ability to cope with Russia in the various phases of technological sciences. By the time this writing reaches you, the famous Atlas will be superseded by other missiles or rockets even more formidable. What does this illustrate? For one thing, education is changing in purpose and philosophy. Already in the short period of your high school, you have seen the need expressed for more trained persons in almost all fields of learning.

We are engaged in a kind of intellectual renaissance. Many of us are thinking a good deal now about education, since we were awakened by some of the recent scientific and military developments in the Soviet Union. The point is, we are still not quite determined in what direction we should go. But rest assured, we shall not fail in this task of education. This means spotting the promise wherever it appears. It may be in a sharecropper's hut in Arkansas, or in one of the cannery rows on the Pacific; it may crop up in a lumber camp in the Northwest, in a coal mine in Pennsylvania, Who knows? Talent has strange ways, and the problem is to follow it, to spot it and to nourish it.

Now what does this mean? It means people who are competent and know what they are doing must structure our curricula. One of the sacred cows that dies hardest is that of localism. People must make a choice; either education is supported on a local level, or it is supported on a national level.

I trust in you, the class of 1959, and thousand of other young graduates, that you have the vision and the courage necessary to act in the name of American democracy, and in God Almighty, that our land shall not perish, but shall show the way to everlasting peace.

As your Supervising Principal, I am happy to congratulate you upon the achievement of the Pioneer. I hope your future years will be happy and fruitful. You will experience failures, no doubt; but this is a part of achieving. Be of good faith.

Sincerely yours,

Robert L. Adams

SUPERVISING PRINCIPAL

Principal Endorses Balanced Education

To the Students:

A principal in his office sees school from a point of view that may differ slightly from a student's version. During the course of a day many events occur that tend to raise a question of just what it is that makes for good education. A student may be sent into the office for correction. Parents are likely to call and ask for students to be excused for a trip, work at home, etc. The yearbook staff may ask for school time to take pictures. Again it may be that the school newspaper would like that some students be excused to go to the printer to set up the paper. On a number of occasions we are asked to conduct drives for clothing, bangle pins, Junior Red Cross and many other things. We are also contacted concerning a student's class work or our program of studies. These are only a few of the many aspects of school that come to the attention of my office.

It is our hope that American education will maintain a balance between the activities program and academic schedule. We have tried to provide for both, and at the same time maintain a reasonable program for each.

As you receive this book, we hope each of you has had a profitable school year. For the Seniors we would hope this is true of all their school life as it now ends at L. S.

With good wishes to one and all we close another school year.

Sincerely yours,

Paul B. Wilson

Efficient Service Staffs Are Necessites

Performing clerical duties in the school office are Mrs. Kathryn Steiner, secretary to the principal; Mrs. Dorothy Mowery, secretary to the supervising principal; and Mrs. Ruth B. Herr, operator of the school's P.A. system.

Responsible for the preparation of daily meals and menus are Mrs. Leah Heagy, cafeteria head, and cooks Miss Carrie Smeltz, Mrs. Dorothy Eshleman, Mrs. Anna Mary Dombach, and Mrs. Helen Kreider.

In charge of the upkeep of the school are Mr. H. Claude Miller, Mr. Charles Trimble, and Mr. Walter Gast. Absent when picture was taken: Mr. Edward Conrad and Mr. Harry Kauffman.

Throughout the school year, Mr. and Mrs. John Book faithfully devote their time to cafeteria and custodial services.

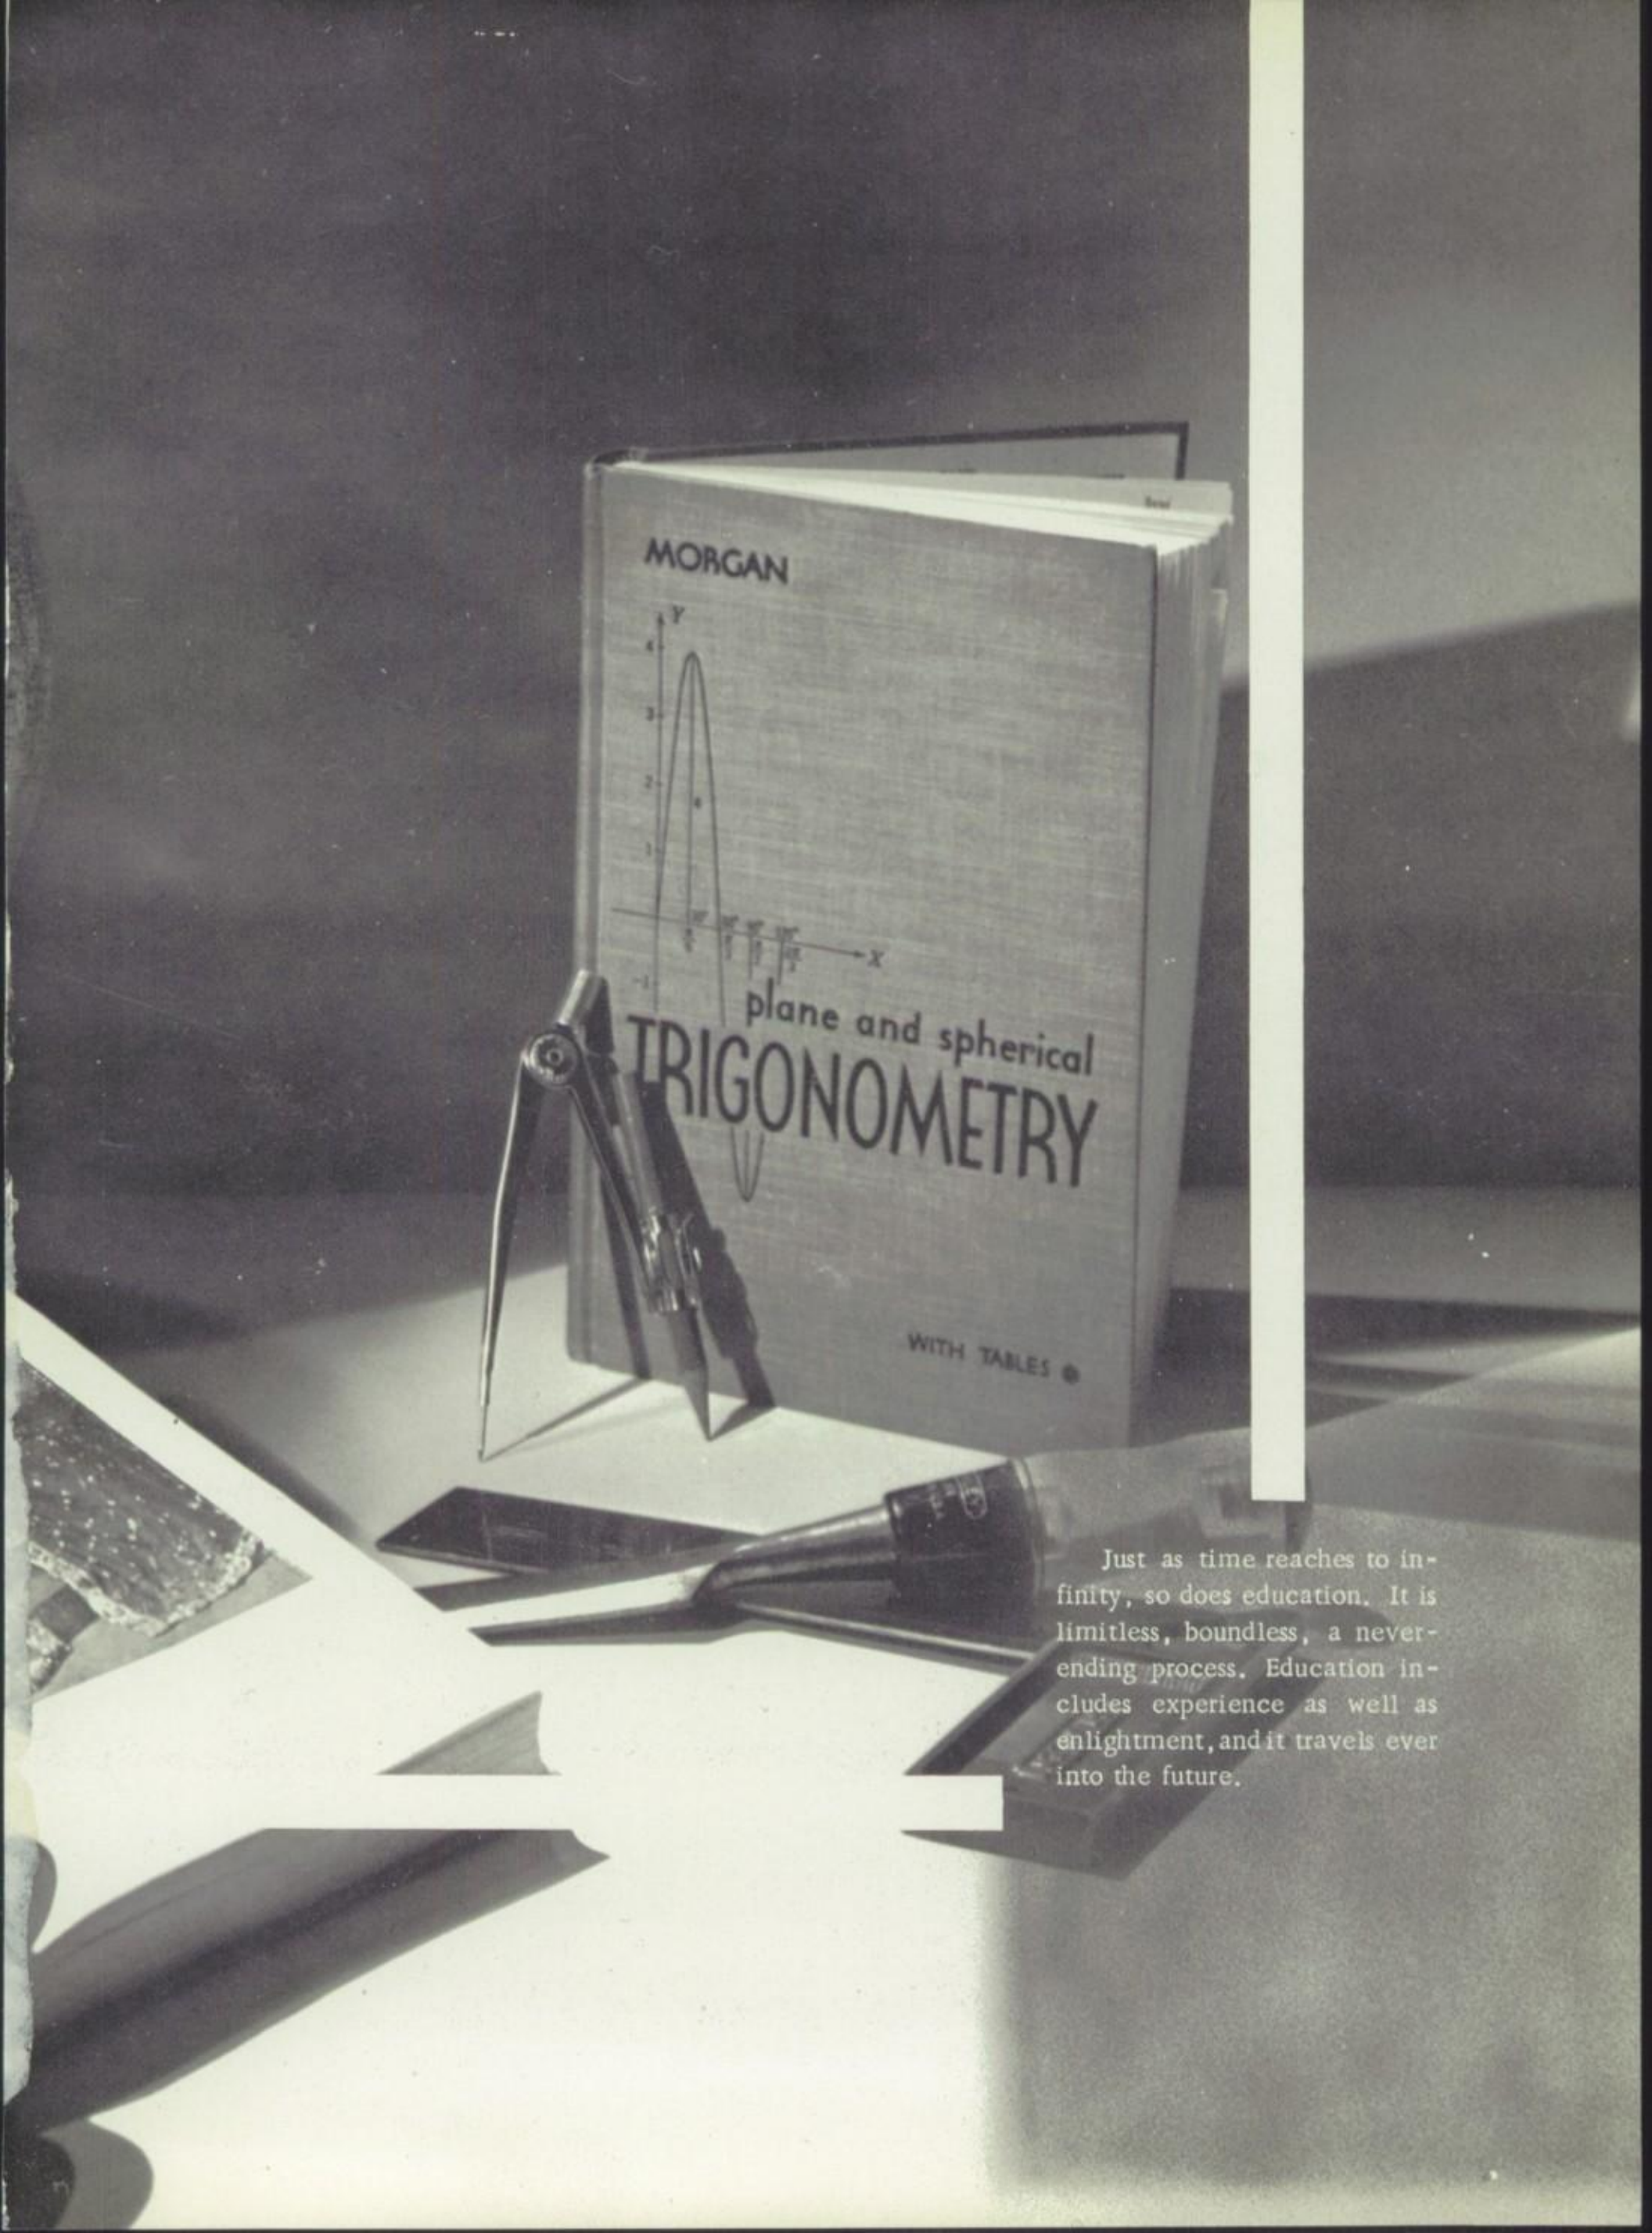
Advisors Aspire for Higher Degrees

CLOCKWISE: Mr. Wine, Mr. Bohlin, Mr. Schuler, Mr. Butler, Mr. Bailey, Mr. Rudy, Mr. Silknetter, Mr. Cox.
INSERT: Mrs. Kammerer, Mr. Adams.

Educators do not outgrow their roles as students. This is proved by the fact that many Lampeter-Strasburg teachers and administrators are now working for their master's and doctor's degrees.

Supervising Principal Robert L. Adams and Jacob C. Wine are working for their D. Ed. degrees at Temple University. William Bohlin is studying for his D. Ed. at the University of Pennsylvania, while Mrs. Mary Kammerer will soon receive her D. Ed. from the Pennsylvania State University.

ACADEMIC YEAR



Just as time reaches to infinity, so does education. It is limitless, boundless, a never-ending process. Education includes experience as well as enlightment, and it travels ever into the future.

Science Department Cultivates

In the current technical age, science has become the framework for the ladder of education. In keeping with this fact, the science department specializes in an attempt to make every student scientifically well-informed.

Whether or not they intend to enter college, all students are required to complete courses in general science and biology. The former is simply a brief study of all the sciences, including astronomy, meteorology, geology, and anatomy; the latter is a more specific course in all the phases of plant and animal life.

These in turn provide a pathway for those Academic students who specialize in more complex sciences of chemistry and physics.

Bob Silar, Marianne Steiner, and Audrey Long prepare materials for a chemistry experiment.

Technical Ability of Students

Chemistry students are taught the rules governing elements and compounds. The integral part of this course is the performing of experiments. These give students the opportunity of putting acquired classroom knowledge to practical use.

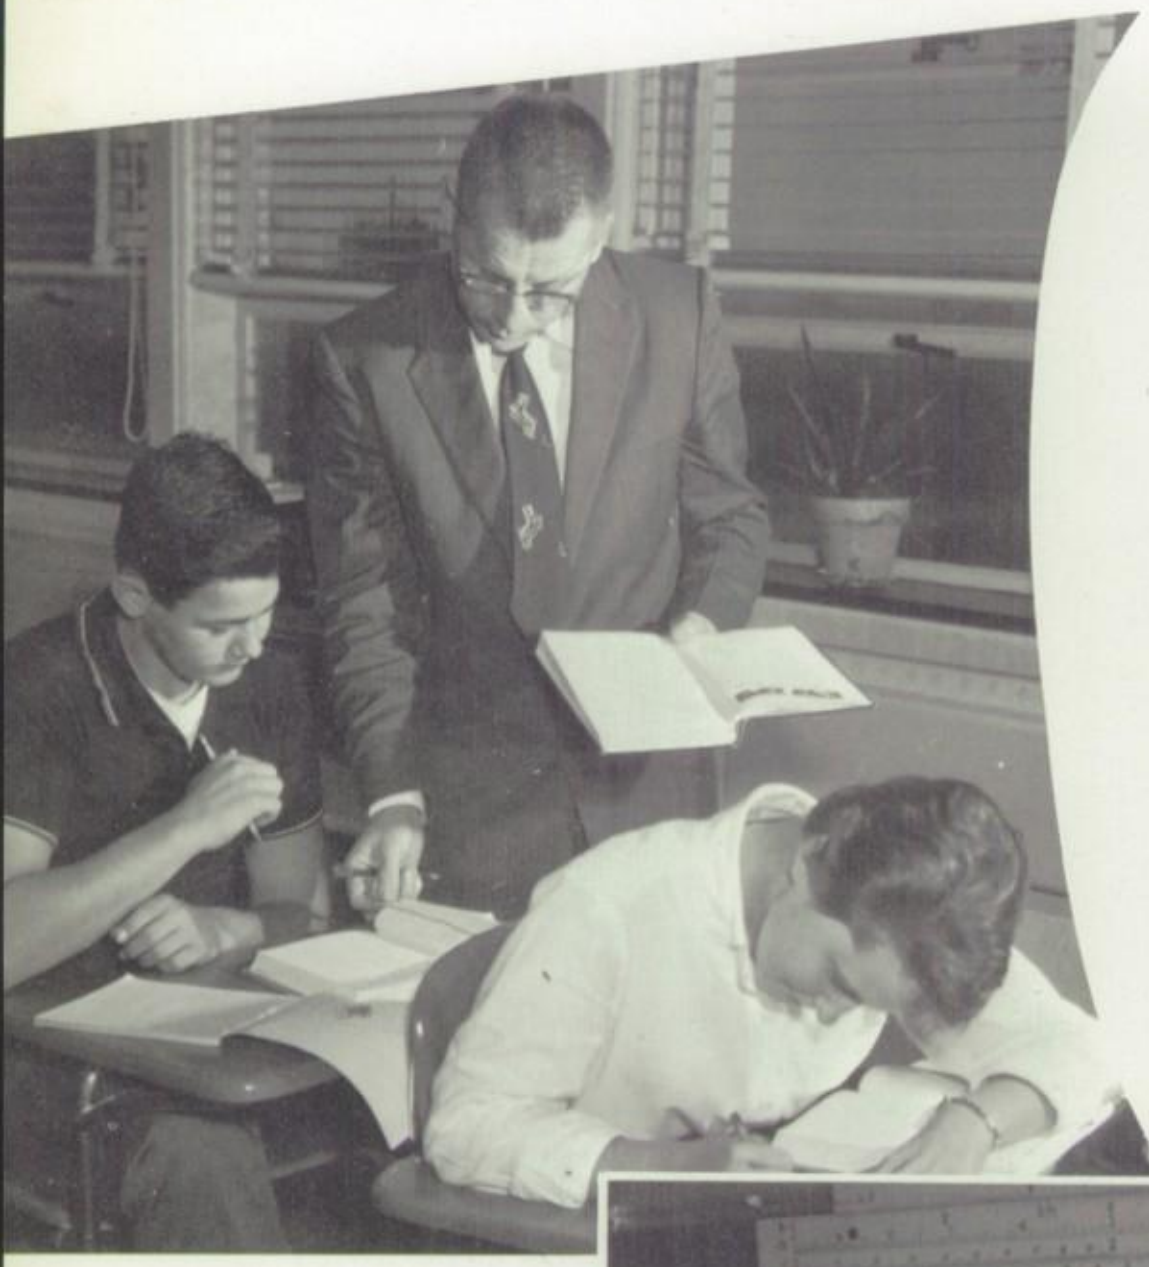
Physics, an elective offered to Seniors in the Academic course, deals with the laws governing matter and energy. Physics students are also given the opportunity of working in the laboratory two hours weekly.

Two years of physical science are offered to students who do not plan to further their formal education. The first year gives the students a broader knowledge of the general sciences, and the second presents a simplified version of the principles of physics and a taste of practical chemistry.

Robert Shaub, Barry Wilson, Mr. Deppeller and Peggy Grim examine biology materials.

Mr. Raymond explains a physics principle to Barry Weaver, Harold Sangrey, and Albert Smoker.

Mathematics Provides a Basis for Existence



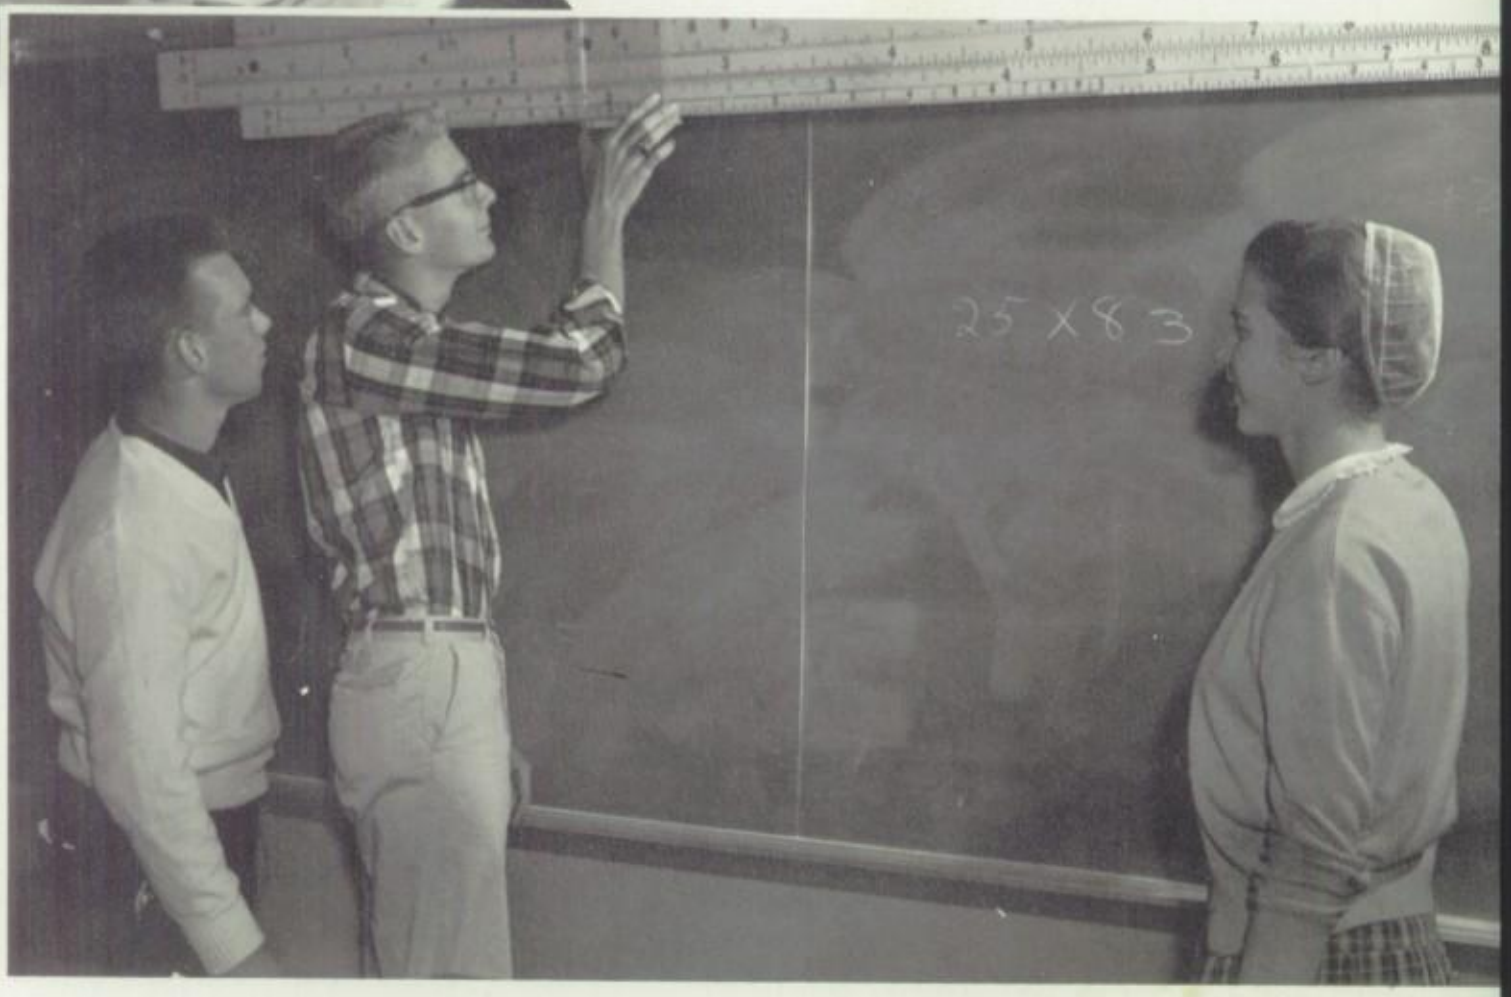
Mr. Weaklim checks homework of Ronnie Koenig and Ivonne Beacham.

Mathematics Department, along with the Science Department, is playing an important role in the current, so-called "Sputnik era," in which higher education is becoming necessary for existence. Mathematics is the basis upon which everything revolves.

General math is taught to all Junior High students. This course introduces the higher, more complex mathematics and also offers drills in the arithmetic principles.

Senior High general math is a review of the basic, everyday principles of math and as such, gives the students a broad mathematical background.

Algebra prepares Freshmen and Sophomores for the higher math courses. These are plane geometry, which teaches basic geometry principles and aids in giving students an ability to reason logically; and the senior math elective, which includes geometry, college algebra and trigonometry.



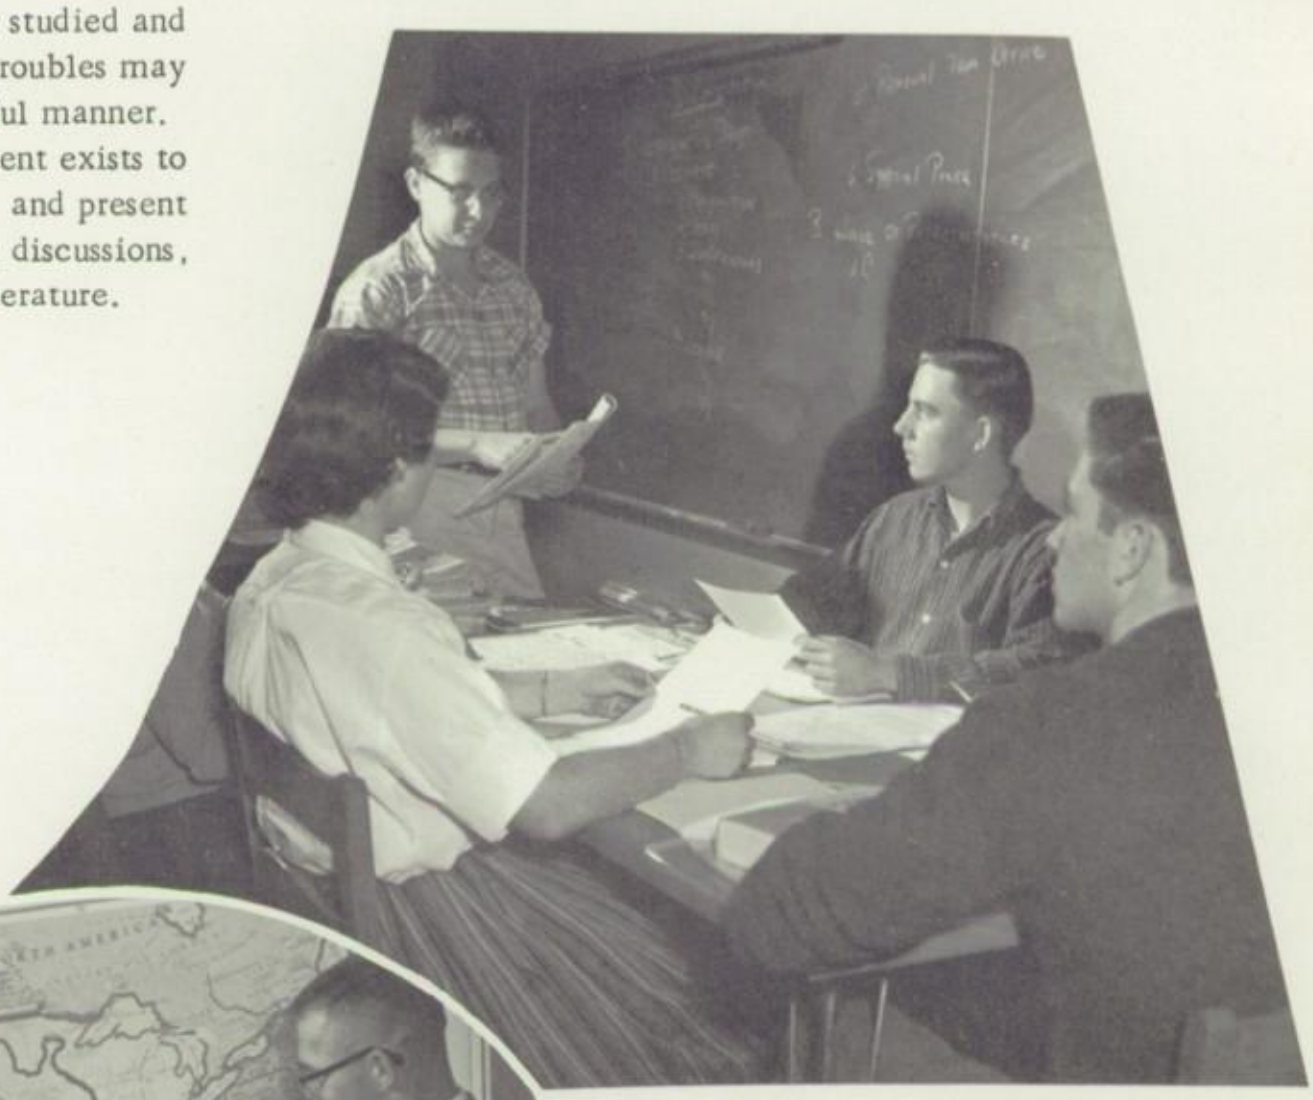
Thomas Wright and Sheldon Tout work a slide rule problem with Edna Groff's help.

Social Studies Aids in the Preservation of Peace

In every successful modern civilization, past problems of the world are studied and discussed in order that present troubles may be faced and solved in a peaceful manner.

The Social Studies department exists to enlighten students about past and present world events through classroom discussions, lectures, maps and historical literature.

Jere Martin, James Willauer, Faye Carpenter, Jim Williams, Mary Jane Herr and Carolyn Book prepare a history report.

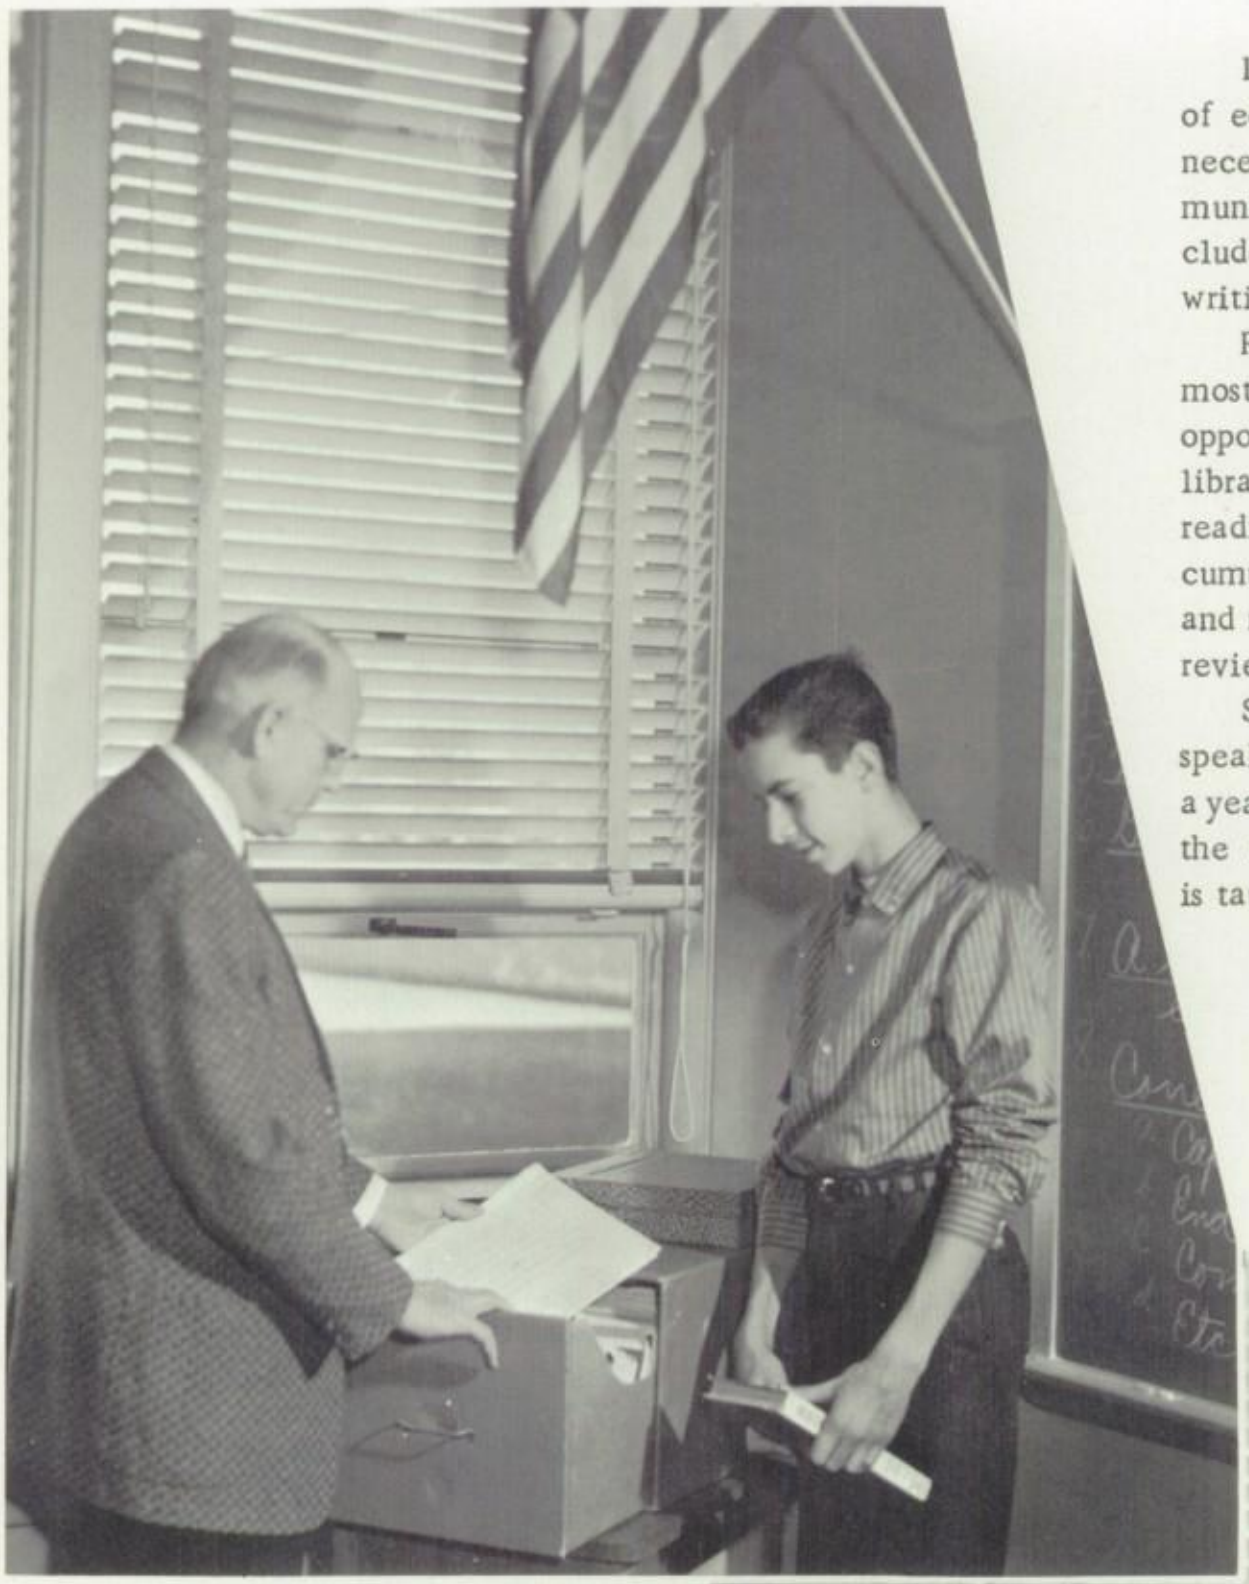


Mr. Eshleman helps Elam Blank, Mary Lou Barley and Nancy Landis find a point on the map.

During the course of the year, Seniors were given tours of Lancaster's industries in order that they might appreciate the features of business economics.

Junior High geography students made several projects to aid in their understanding of the effect of natural environment on a person's life.

Language Arts Teaches Four Phases of Communication



Mr. Wine checks test scores with John Chesters.

Language Arts is an important phase of education; for it teaches a primary necessity in every life--the art of communication. The four arts, which include many subdivisions, are reading, writing, speaking and listening.

Reading and writing are given the most extensive study. The former offers opportunities to use the facilities of the library for reference work and leisure reading. The latter knowledge is accumulated over the high school years and ranges from the composing of book reviews to research papers.

Students are given the experience of speaking before the class several times a year; and, if they so desire, may elect the senior course in speech. Listening is taught in a self-explanatory method.

Doris Campbell, Miss Civizic, Robert Weaver, and Larry Brubaker.

Language Creates Foreign Cultural Understanding

To better understand the culture and traditions of a country and the reactions of its citizens to various situations, one needs to study the language of the country.

Latin creates in the student a proper foundation of basic English rules and the derivation of many English words which were rooted in the Latin language.

Since French is primarily a spoken language, students are given much practice in actual reading and recording on tape. Records are often played so that the word may be heard pronounced correctly and then imitated.

John Brown, Ronald Good, and Dottie Barge arrange a bulletin display with the help of Mrs. Snyder.

Donna Denlinger, Bonnie Adams, Donna Long, and Harold Sangrey glance over La Juenesse.

Commercial Students Prepare for the Business World

Nancy Myers and Dawn McCue demonstrate keys to Carolyn Rohrer and Edward Armstrong.

During their high school education, many students desire to acquire practical experience in the work which they plan to do upon graduation. Such is the wish of the commercial students gaining useful ability for the business world. The course consists of typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, and office practice.

Office practice is required of all senior commercial students, enabling them to gain practical experience while acting as secretaries to teachers throughout the year.

Shorthand is beneficial to future secretaries. Quick and efficient dictation is one of the most important requirements of the office girl.

Typing is offered as an elective to Seniors, providing those whose plans are still somewhat vague, the opportunity of entering a business field.

Maritza Duenas helps Ned Cramer and Betty Mellott with their calculations.

Industrial Arts Students Pursue Purposeful Skills

Learning the use of various skills with unfamiliar machines, materials, and tools is the chief objective of the Industrial Arts Department. The course is a specialized one for all interested Junior and Senior High boys and one which enables senior girls, in preparation for their future teaching careers, to widen their practical experience and to pursue purposeful hobbies.

The department desires to put the creative ability of the pupil to work by familiarizing him with wood working, plastics, ceramics, metal work and a more technical introduction to mechanical drawing.

Russell Timmins, Ronald Kneisley, Randall Barley and Larry Leachey use wood shop equipment.

Home Economics Students Major in Home Problems

Even in today's scientifically technical age, the fundamentals of home economics, such as sewing, and home management, must be taught; for it is from good homes that great scientists come.

Junior High girls are taught the basic phases of homemaking which will help them during their lives, no matter what type of career they may choose.

Senior High girls are given more detailed and specific information on the tailoring of clothes, by rug making, infant care, cooking, furniture refurnishing and interior decorating.

This department allows girls to major in home problems and also to get a picture of the work done by their male classmates during an interchange with the Agricultural Department.

Mrs. Weaver explains correct use of automatic washer to Patricia Wilson and Doris Shenk.

Sara Jane Miller and Myrna Heisler put final stitches in their projects.

Vocational Agriculture Faces Current Farming Situation

Higher education contacts are serving to dispel farming superstitions in an attempt to make the agricultural field even more scientific. The vocational agriculture department is pioneering with the new methods, ideas and problems facing the farming situation today.

During the four year specialized course in farming procedure, the student learns the care and maintenance of farm machinery, the use of the fertilizers which produce the most abundant and best qualities of crops per acre and the production of better farm and dairy breeds.

Mervin Breckbill, Charles Evans, and Clarence Bauman check a piece of farm equipment.

Ag classes deal directly with livestock.

Music Department Offers Appreciation Courses

Music, either vocal or instrumental, is a varied and cultural course offered to all students who desire to gain an appreciation and a knowledge of fine music.

Vocal music is a specialized course for Junior High students. Here they are given the opportunity to better understand and appreciate classical music through listening and discussing and to increase their vocal ability through practice and experience.

Instrumental music gives the students a chance to further increase their proficiency in music by using self-initiative. However, they must be able to meet ability requirements before qualifying for instrumental lessons.

Mr. Reed listens to Fred Shultz practicing his lesson.

Allen Buckwalter and Marcille Brunke practice for music program.

Art Teaches Cultural Aspects of Life

Students need to learn the cultural as well as the technical aspects of life. It is in the cultural field that the art department specializes. Art includes such projects as sculpture, drawing, oil painting, and perspective and poster work.

This course attempts to bring out the creativeness of the students by encouraging them to work on the fine details of school activities such as scenery for the Junior and Senior plays, dance decorations, bulletin board displays, and posters, all of which are given final approval by an art committee.

Barbara Rankin and Tessa Harnish arrange display case.

Ann McComsey starts an oil painting as Carson Mellott and Dorothy Strubel look on.

Guidance Department Stands As a Visual Symbol

Each student is welcomed and encouraged by the guidance department to freely discuss any particular problem or difficulty he may have. This is done in order that the department may be able to assist and guide the student in making the correct decisions.

In their required guidance classes, Junior High students are taught the proper adjustment necessary in high school, the way to better understand themselves, and the college and career information which they will put to use in a few, short years. The latter information is given and put to practical use by the more mentally mature Senior High students.

No student can make his way up the never ending educational ladder alone. He must be guided and given advice at each step during his climb. It is for that specific purpose that the guidance department exists.

Mrs. Kammerer helps Albert Starr to interpret aptitude tests.

Driver Education Teaches Practical Knowledge

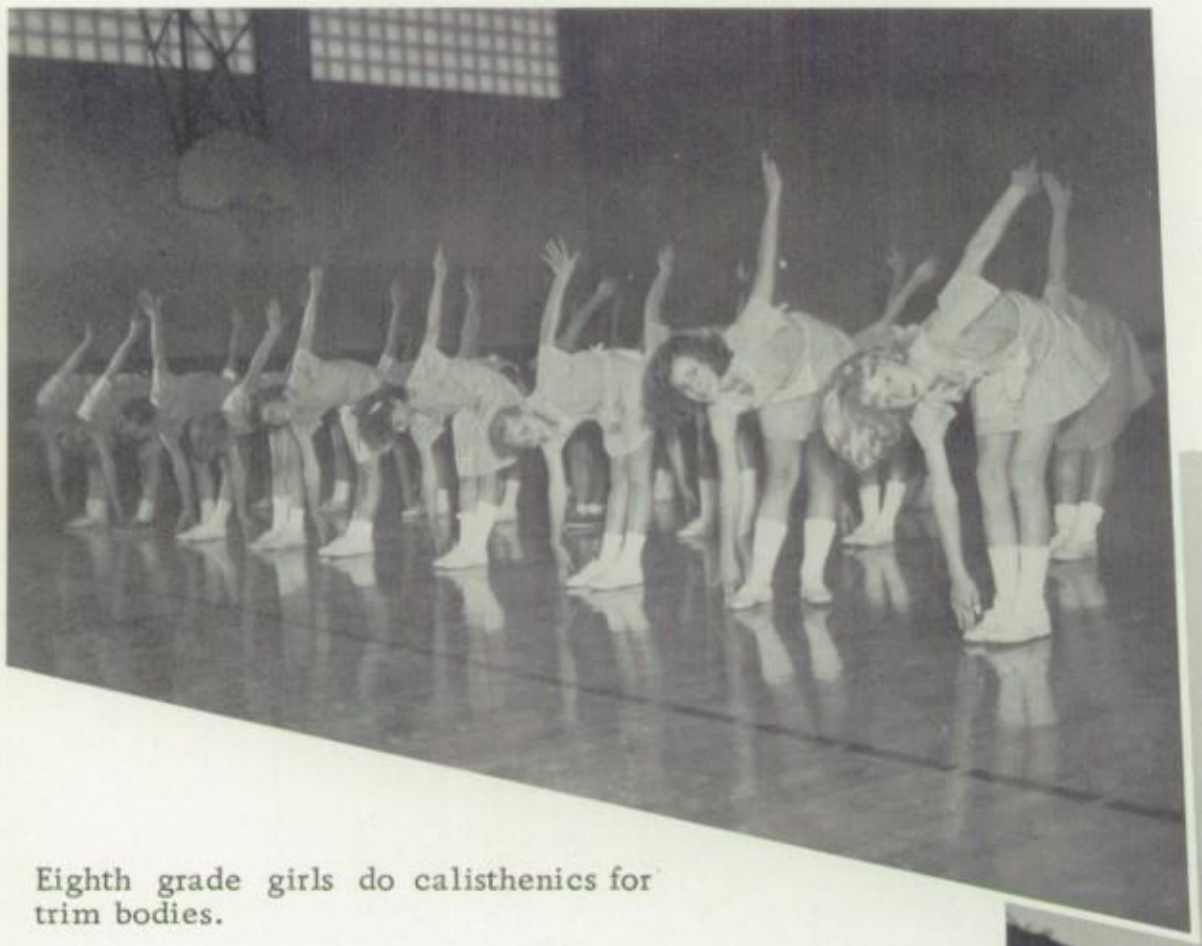
Veda Kay Sollenberger, Anne Louise Brackbill and Drew Krause examine a tire of the driver education car.

Ruth Ann Myers explains right of way to Glenn Book and Eva Alexander.

Even in a period of complex scientific learning, practical knowledge must be taught; it is for this reason that driver education is required of all Junior students.

The course consists of classroom training in the proper attitudes and responsibilities of driving, plus the principles and care of the automobile. Students are also given actual practice driving in order that they may develop good driving habits and mental alertness.

Physical Education Develops Individual Maturity



Eighth grade girls do calisthenics for trim bodies.

During their scholastic careers, students devote most of their time to physically immobile activities, thus causing a lack of vitally--needed exercise. Physical education is designed to overcome this deficiency by requiring students to participate in athletics two hours a week.

Physical education provides the opportunity to develop physical fittness, mental alertness and, perhaps the most important characteristic of a well-rounded person, the quality of good sportsmanship.

Sophomore boys show correct use of ropes.

Health Department Stresses Vitality

One of the prime requisites of a good student is a healthy body. Strong physical and mental health permits the student to be better prepared to meet educational demands. Health classes, conducted by Miss Jeanette Vottero and Donald Eshelman, are designed to give Eighth Graders and Juniors a practical and detailed study of the body.

During the year students are given various health courses which should prove practical and valuable in their later life. Included in these studies are first aid, bone and muscle structure, and a detailed study of the individual systems of the body.

SENIORS

For four years they worked, laughed and played as they climbed the ladder of education. Now the final high school rung has been grasped. With memories of the past and expectancy for the future, they leave to continue to a higher level of the never-ending climb.

CLASS SONG

To our Alma Mater, harbor from strife,
We thank thee for giving precepts of life.
Our author of knowledge, guardian of youth,
We honor thee ever, teacher of truth.

Fond memories will linger day after day,
For soon we must part and each go our own way.
All Hail, Alma Mater, cherished and true,
We bid thee farewell, beloved White and Blue.

CLASS MOTTO: Our todays and yesterdays are the blocks with which we build our lives.

CLASS FLOWER: White rose and ivy

CLASS COLORS: Charcoal gray and white

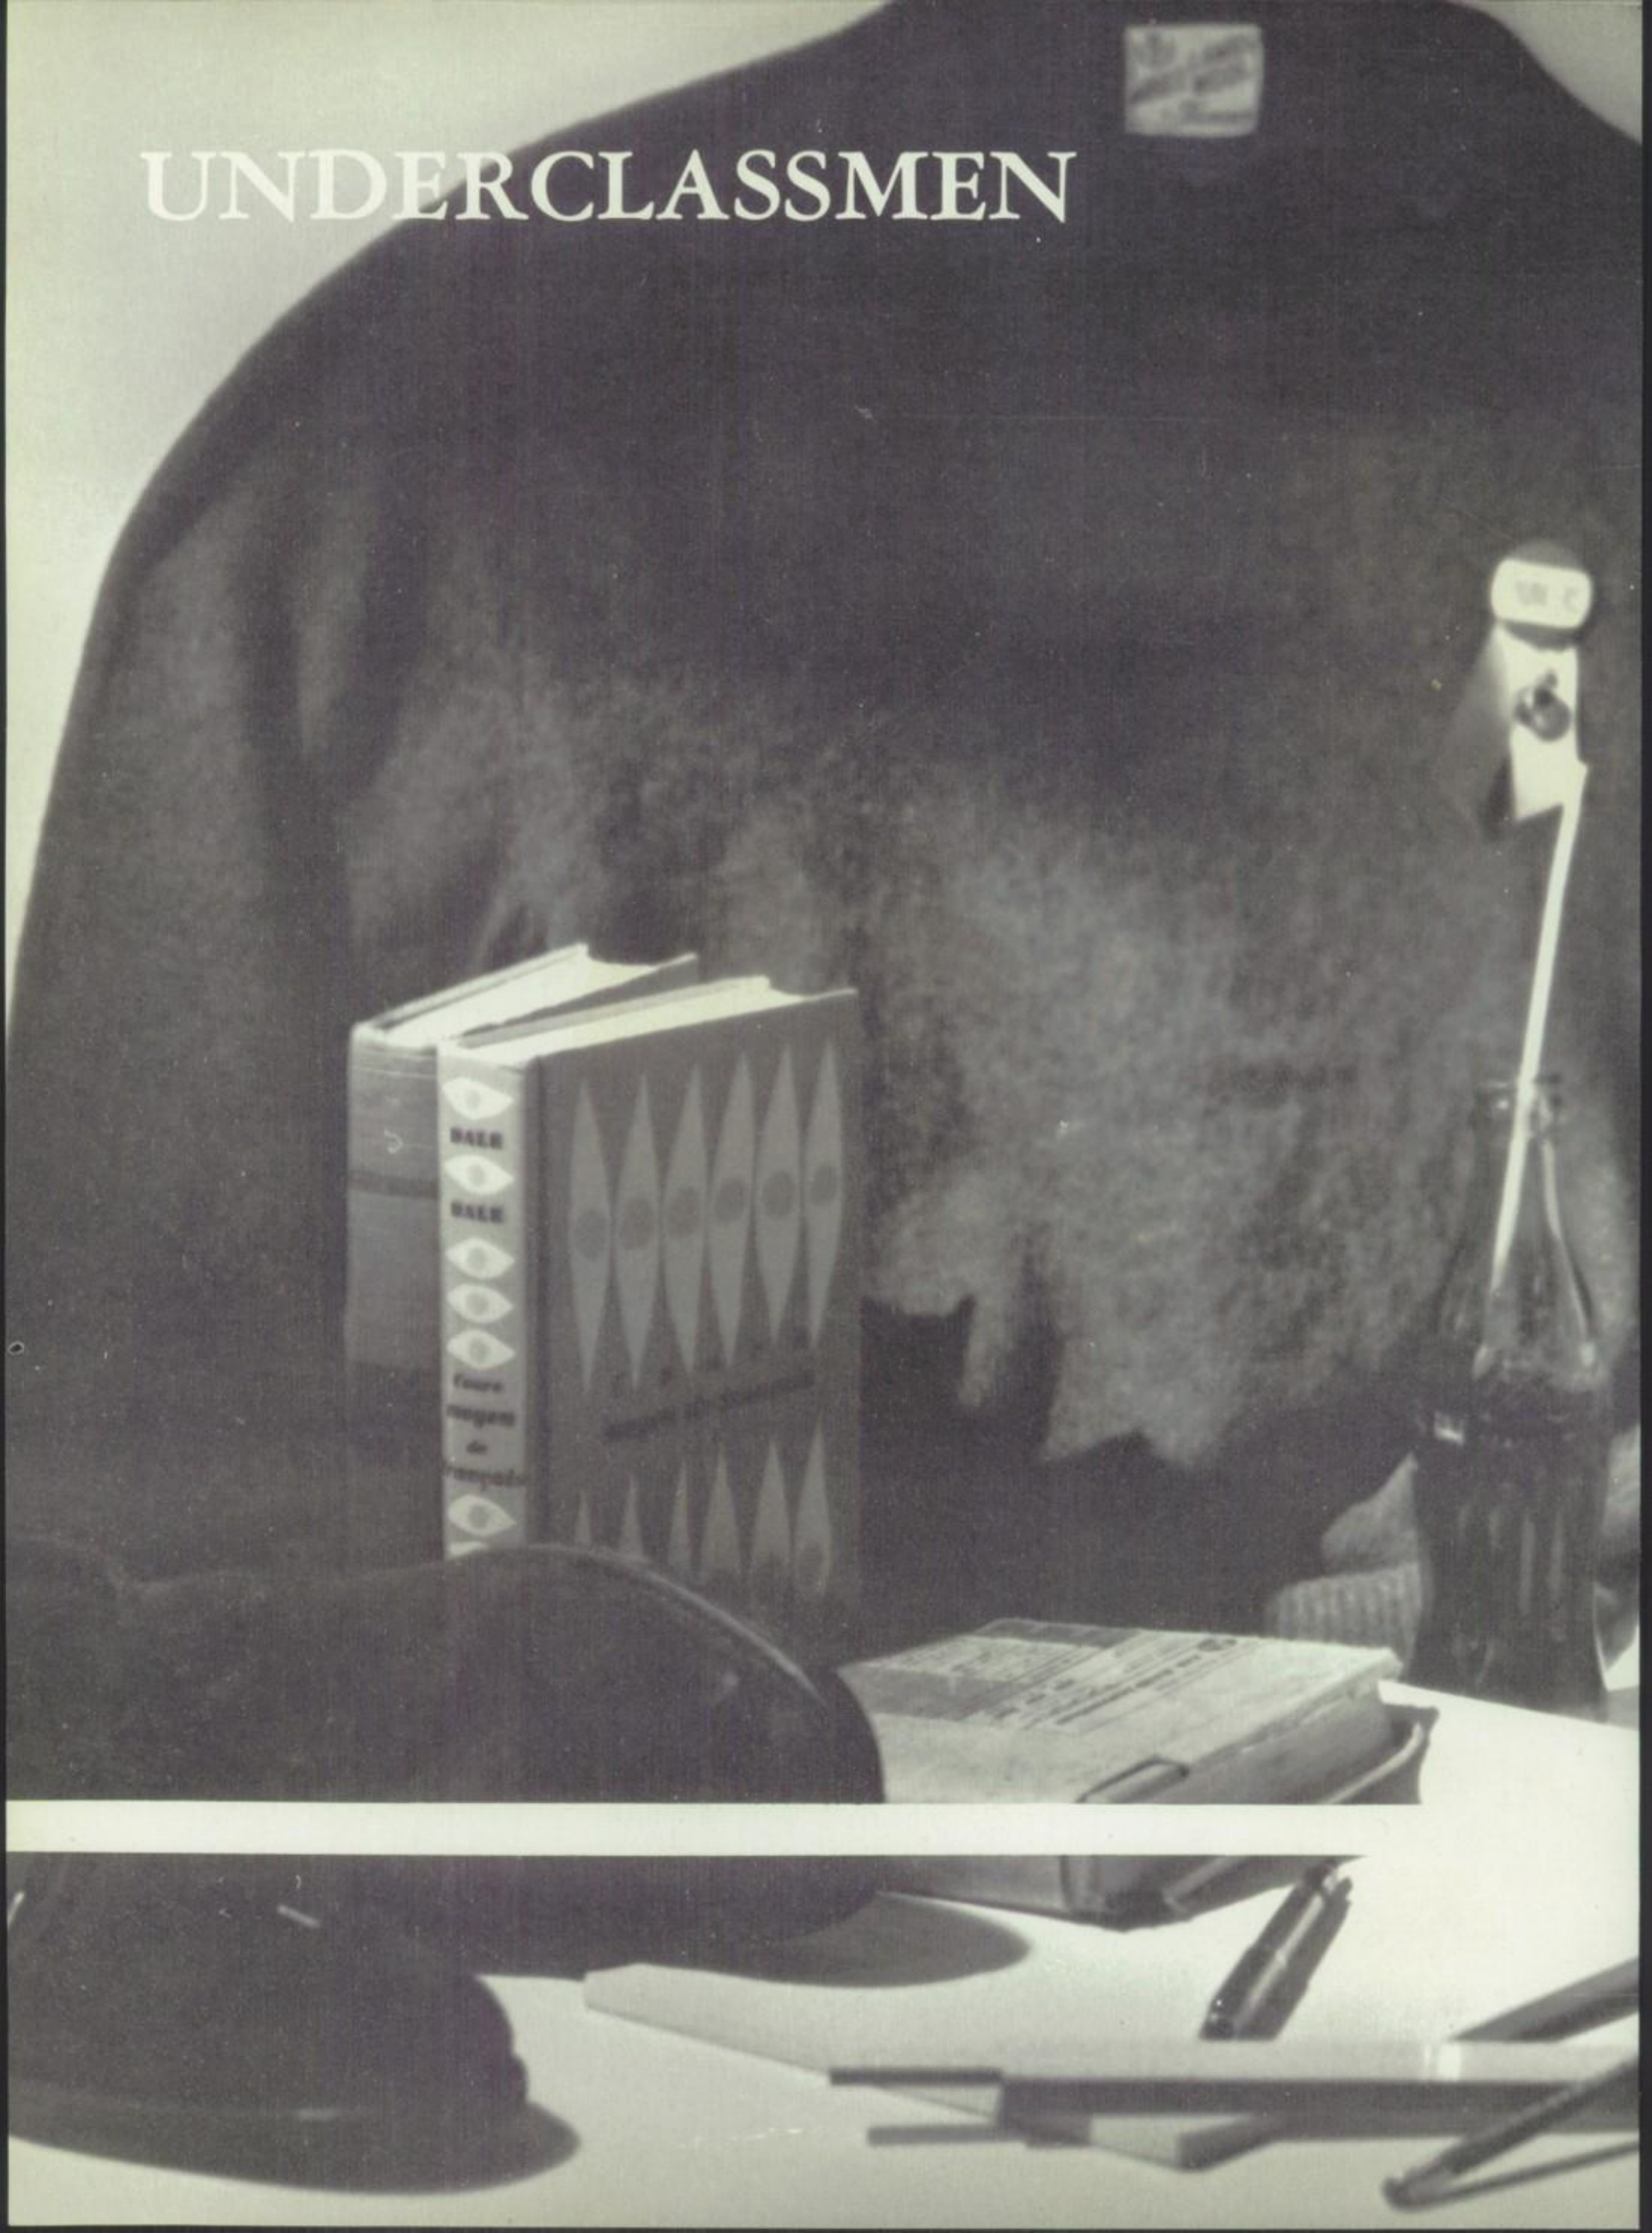
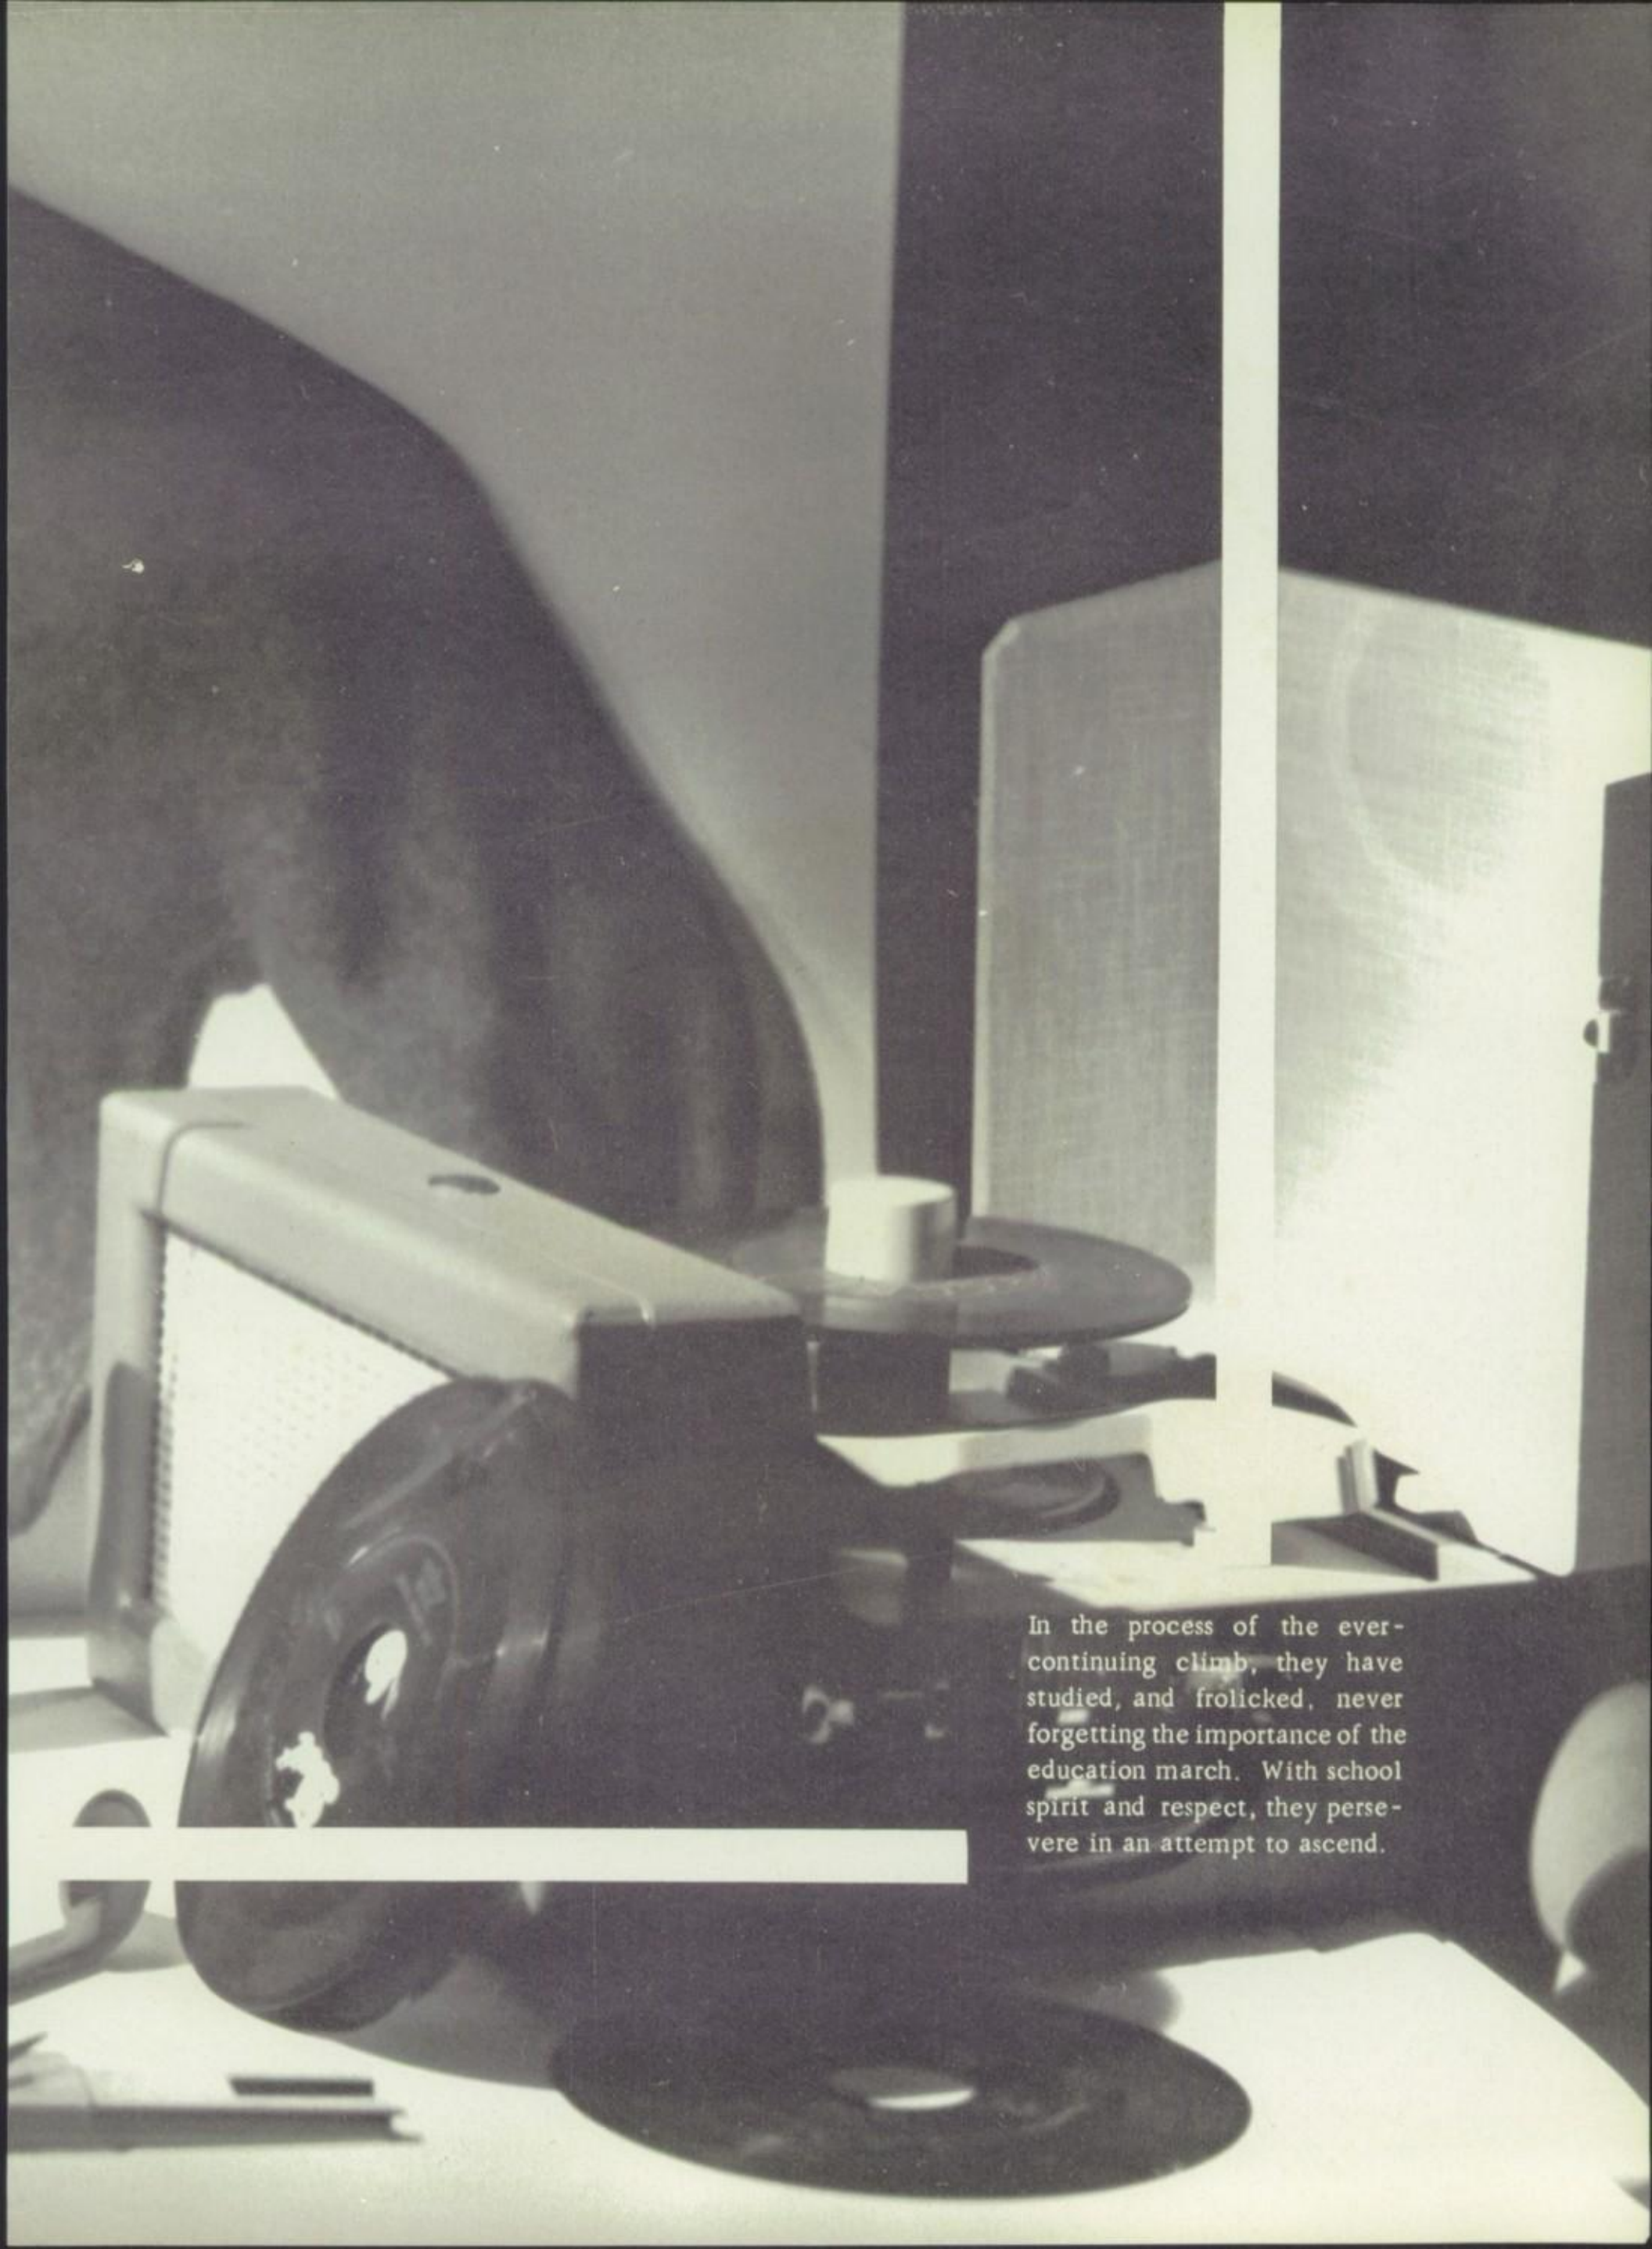
Graduation Day

UNDERCLASSMEN





In the process of the ever-continuing climb, they have studied, and frolicked, never forgetting the importance of the education march. With school spirit and respect, they persevere in an attempt to ascend.

Juniors Exhibit

FIRST ROW: K. Barrett, M. Slaymaker, E. Alexander, E. Link, J. Long, A. Burch, S. Hoin, A. Shreiner, K. Miller, P. Singer. SECOND ROW: A. Long, S. Good, R. Harnish, H. Rudy, H. Eshleman, J. FOURTH ROW: R. Knotwell, T. Pontz, J. Farster, J. Metcalf, J. Saturen, D. Bolbach, D. Herrington, R. Mayhew, A. Krause, J. Kauffman.

Juniors, intent on gaining a stronghold of A's for their report cards, gained their objective by strategy in the form of study.

As the honor roll showed the Juniors' proficiency in their studies, so the number of varsity letters given out showed the athletic prowess of the Juniors.

The Junior play, using the skills of Thespians from the Junior class, entertained all the many people who attended it, showing the ability of the Juniors to work hard for a successful product.

Qualities of Leadership

FIRST ROW: K. Neff, R. Myer, A. Brackbill, V. K. Sollenberger, P. Smith, M. Barr, R. Harnish, M. Faust, J. Rineer. SECOND ROW: S. Eshleman, M. Steiner, B. Brubaker, S. Pryer, B. Eckman, L. As a new year rolled around, this year's Sophomore Class looked forward to being an accepted part of the Senior High, taking with the new privilege an added responsibility of being "looked up to" by the underclassmen.

One highlight of the Sophomore's year was the choosing of the class jacket with boxed sleeves, emblazoned with the blue and white L.S.H.S.

Ranks of Senior High

FIRST ROW: S. Slaugh, B. Rankin, C. Rhorer, K. Walters, M. Eckman, P. Drake, I. Goss, D. McCue, S. Gibble. SECOND ROW: T. Templeton, C. Wagner, R. Keller, T. Harnish, D. Strubel, A. McComsey, D. Using their talents to great advantage, the class of '61 entered high scores in all scholastic and extracurricular activities, readying themselves for the years ahead.

With such dependability, scholarship, and school spirit shown by the Sophomores, they are destined to play an important part in the future of Lampeter-Strasburg. That all-important day when they assume the high position of Seniors is not too far in the future.

Freshmen Commence

FIRST ROW: B. Yeagley, A. Myers, E. Murray, M. A. Mosemann, R. Mitchell, M. Herr, T. Cathy, J. Graeff, S. King, F. Rinier, A. Hachman. SECOND ROW: M. Breckbill, D. Barge, A. Witmer, B. Gorrecht, M. Koch, J. Brown, I. Sulyok, F. Brubaker, J. Krantz.

Freshmen started the new school year with much enthusiasm, this being the first year they were allowed to choose courses in preparation for their future careers.

After analyzing their interests and abilities, those with musical talent joined the band and chorus. Many others chose clubs according to their individual concerns.

with Much Enthusiasm

FIRST ROW: J. Hamilton, H. Rhodes, B. Henry, D. Campbell, D. Hamill, B. Barley. SECOND ROW: P. Faulk, M. Groff, B. Moseman, C. Richards, D. Bensinger, B. Smith, G. Rohrer, M. Prociw, L. Heath, B. VanCleve, R. Miller, J. Sultzback, J. Garber, D. Herr, F. Fisher.

Perhaps with a little more experience than last year, the Eighth Graders entered the school in September with a set of new ideals and higher goals, intent on "doing better this year."

Members of the Class of '63 with athletic ability, participated in hockey, soccer, basketball and cheerleading, keeping school spirit high and at the same time working toward future championship teams.

Intense Initiative

FIRST ROW: A. Ely, B. Herr, P. Leonard, J. Witmer, T. Lefever, N. Baumen, B. Grimecy, L. Weaver, C. Amspacner, K. Neff, F. Von Reyn. SECOND ROW: K. Faust, P. Rankin, V. Hassel, A. Havercamp, S. Thompson, A. Starr, J. Chesters, R. Roher, S. Byrd, B. Wentz, R. Slaymaker.

Many Eighth Graders joined the Junior Band, the Junior Chorus, the Junior Red Cross and other worthwhile organizations throughout L.S.H.S.

Participating in the magazine campaign, they chalked up a high sales record, earning money for the class treasury and prizes for the class members.

The Eighth Graders of today are destined to be the Seniors of tomorrow, bringing honor and credit to Lampeter-Strasburg High School.

Seventh Graders Begin

FIRST ROW: F. Heisler, H. Turner, D. Boughman, S. Wolgast, J. Landis, R. Zeigler, T. Groff, B. Herman, M. Amspacher, A. Groff, J. Hackman, B. Just, M. Dorsey. SECOND ROW: L. Brubaker, J. Roth, W. Herr, R. Mohler, D. Greenway, H. Ranck, J. Geyer.

As newcomers to high school life, the Seventh Graders wasted no time in becoming accustomed to the many changes from their preceeding elementary days. They made themselves at home, joining various clubs and activities such as Junior Band and Chorus in which their membership was eligible.

Many displayed their individual abilities on the Junior High basketball team and cheerleading squad.

New Type of Life

Melody and fifty-nine voices contributed culture to Lampeter-Strasburg High School in the form of the Senior Chorus, which made several memorable appearances. Under the direction of Jack Ryan, the chorus, comprised of Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors, performed expertly throughout the year.

For their annual Christmas Candlelight Service, the chorus presented the first operetta to be given on the stage of the new high school. The one-act operetta was entitled "Amahl and the Night Visitors" and was written by Gion Carlos Minnotte. The chorus portrayed the shepherds while several members acted out the five main character roles.

In the spring on May 9, the chorus presented another first: the annual spring concert for the first time without being associated with another school musical organization. The spring concert provided a climax fitting to end a year of hard work and fruitful rehearsals.

Senior Band, comprised of fifty-three talented musicians under the direction of James Reed, presented an outstanding repertoire throughout the year. Representing Lampeter-Strasburg in the New Holland, Hallowe'en, Memorial Day and Safety Patrol Parades, the band was led in parade formation by banner-carriers, Judy Rineer and Susan Dunlap; colorguards Sara Ann Buckwalter, Shirley Eshleman, Cynthia Landis and Terry McCrabbe; and drum major, Donald Herrington. Adding an additional touch were drum majorettes Dorothy Strubel, Ann McComsey,

Senior Chorus Presents Operetta,

Led this year by (Left to Right) Mr. Ryan, Advisor; K. Neff, pianist; M. Yuninger, librarian; M. Steiner, librarian; B. Andrews, vice-president; D. Groff, treasurer; T. Wright, president; D. Denlinger, secretary, the Senior chorus maintained a well-organized performance and practice schedule throughout the season.

The members of the Senior Chorus (Left to Right) J. Brubaker, T. Wright, S. Good, S. Eshelman, and M. Steiner were selected after tryouts to participate in the county chorus concert February 28, at Columbia High School.

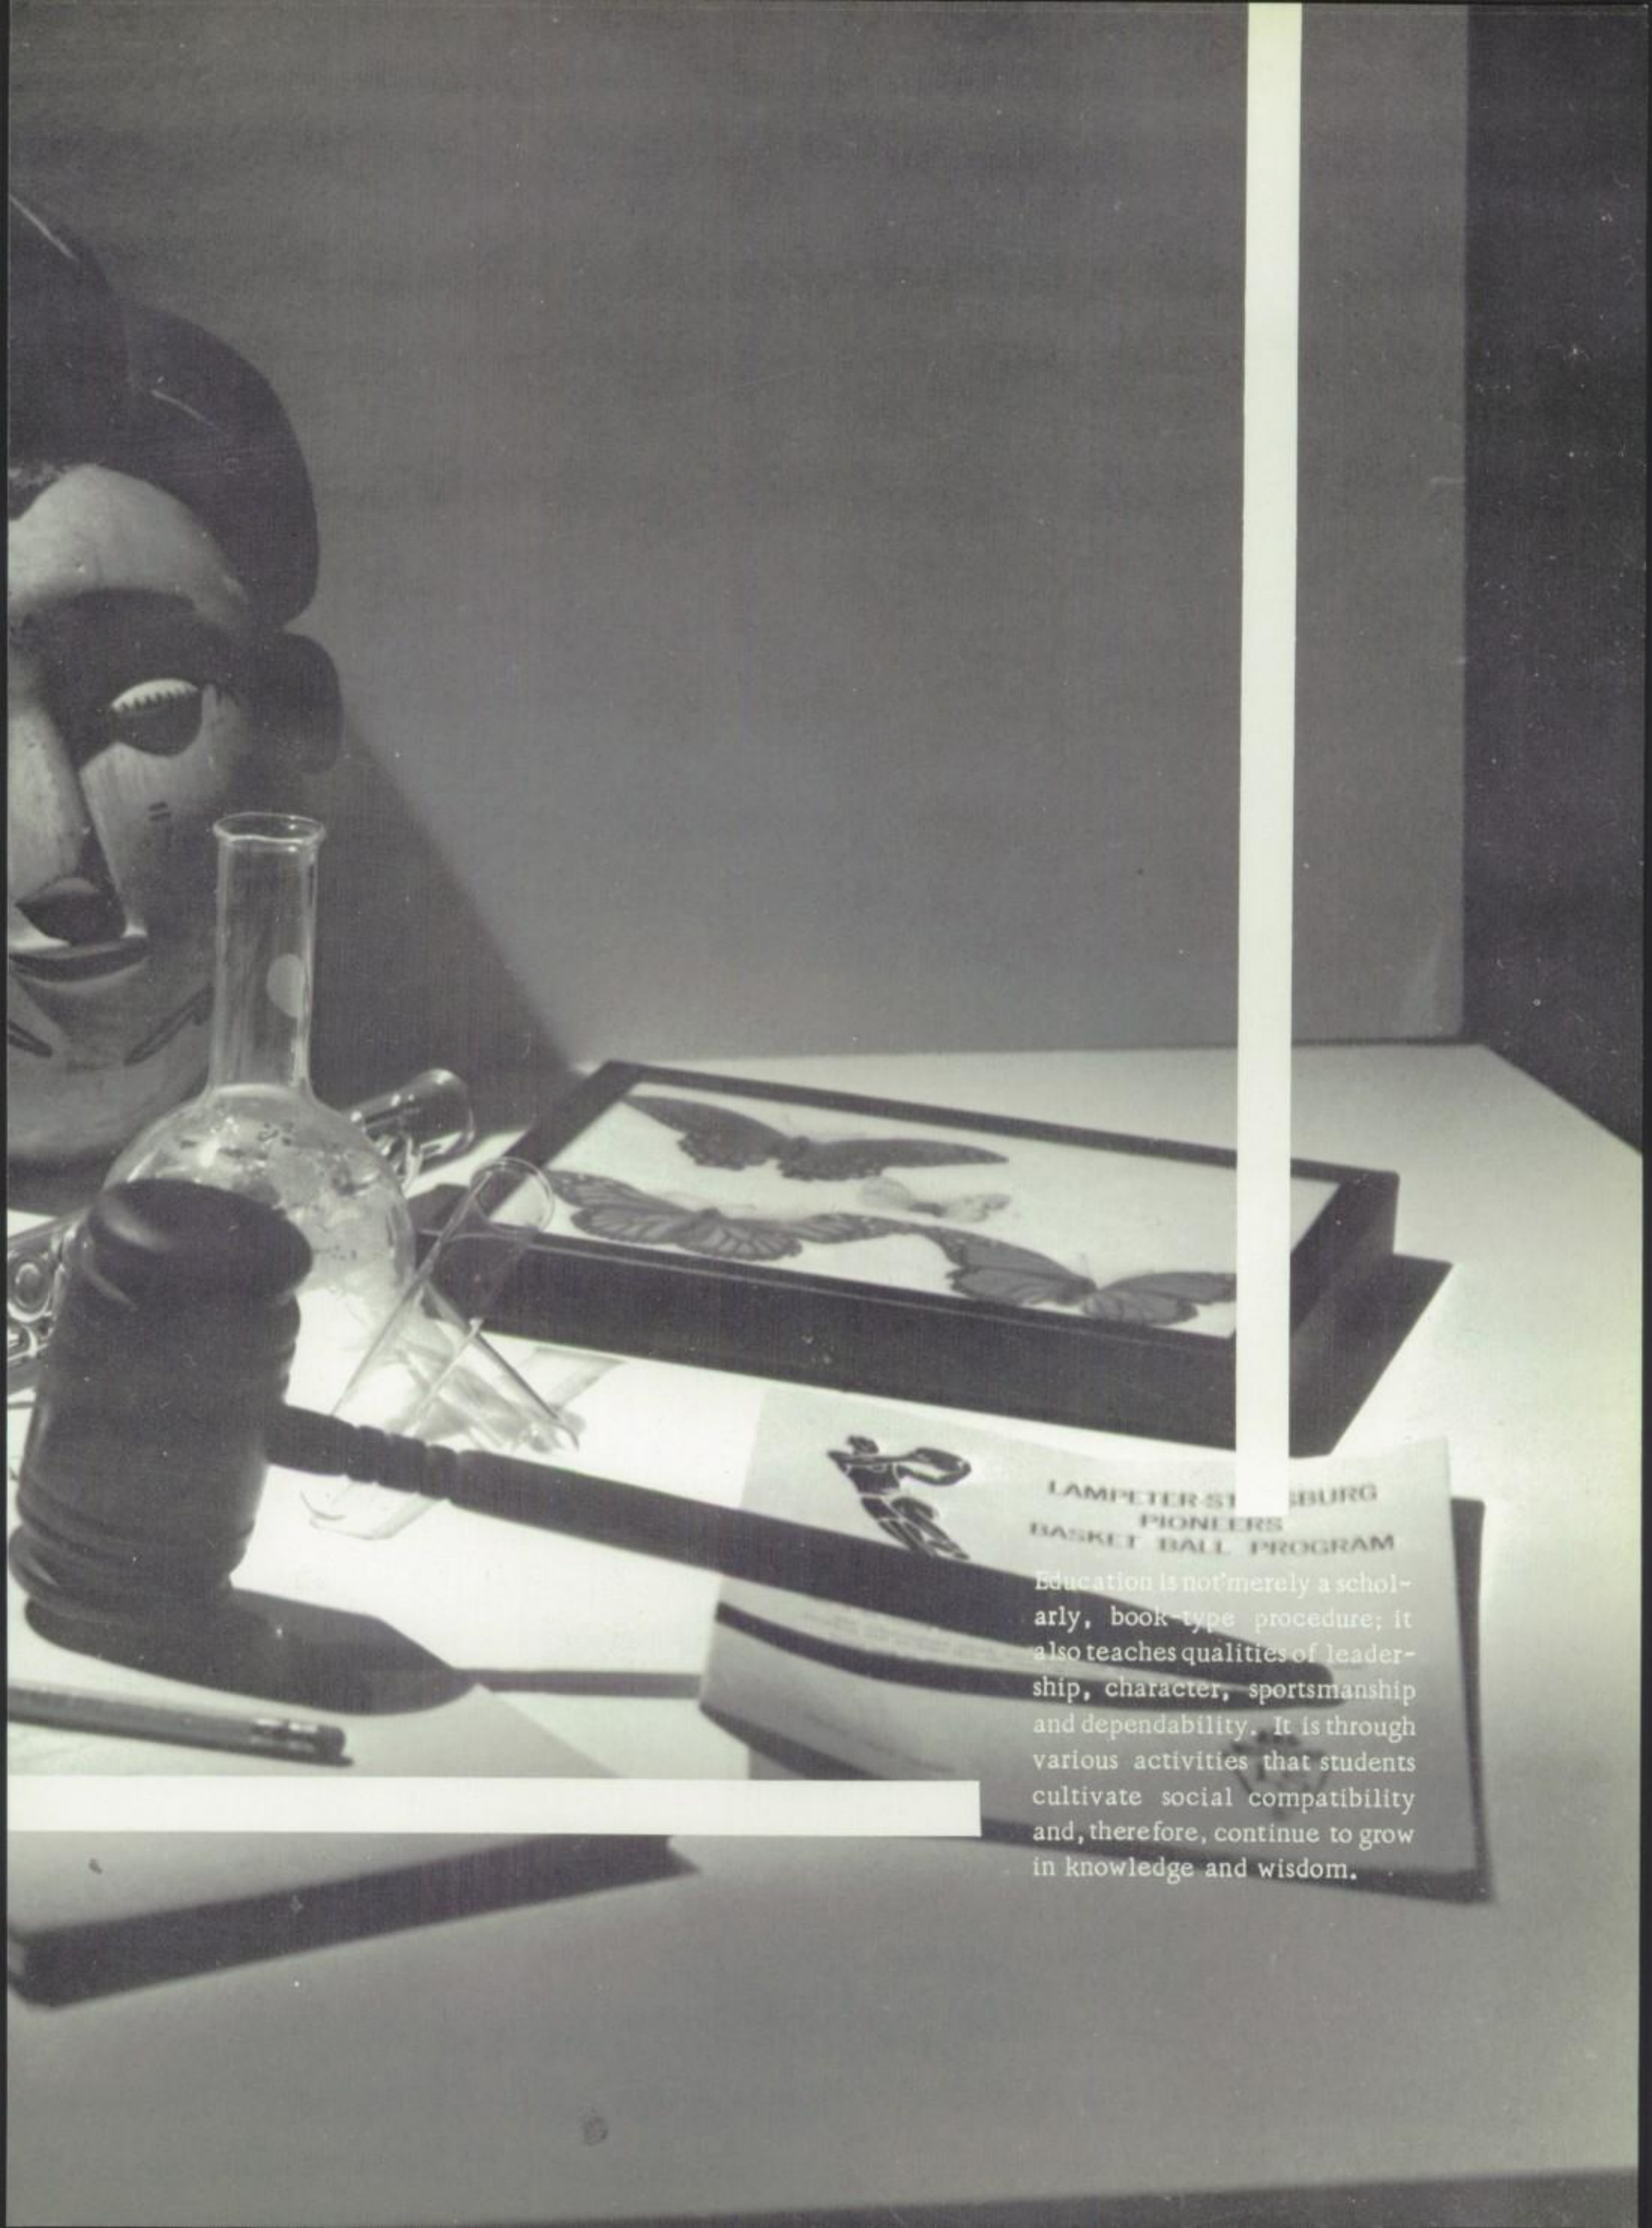
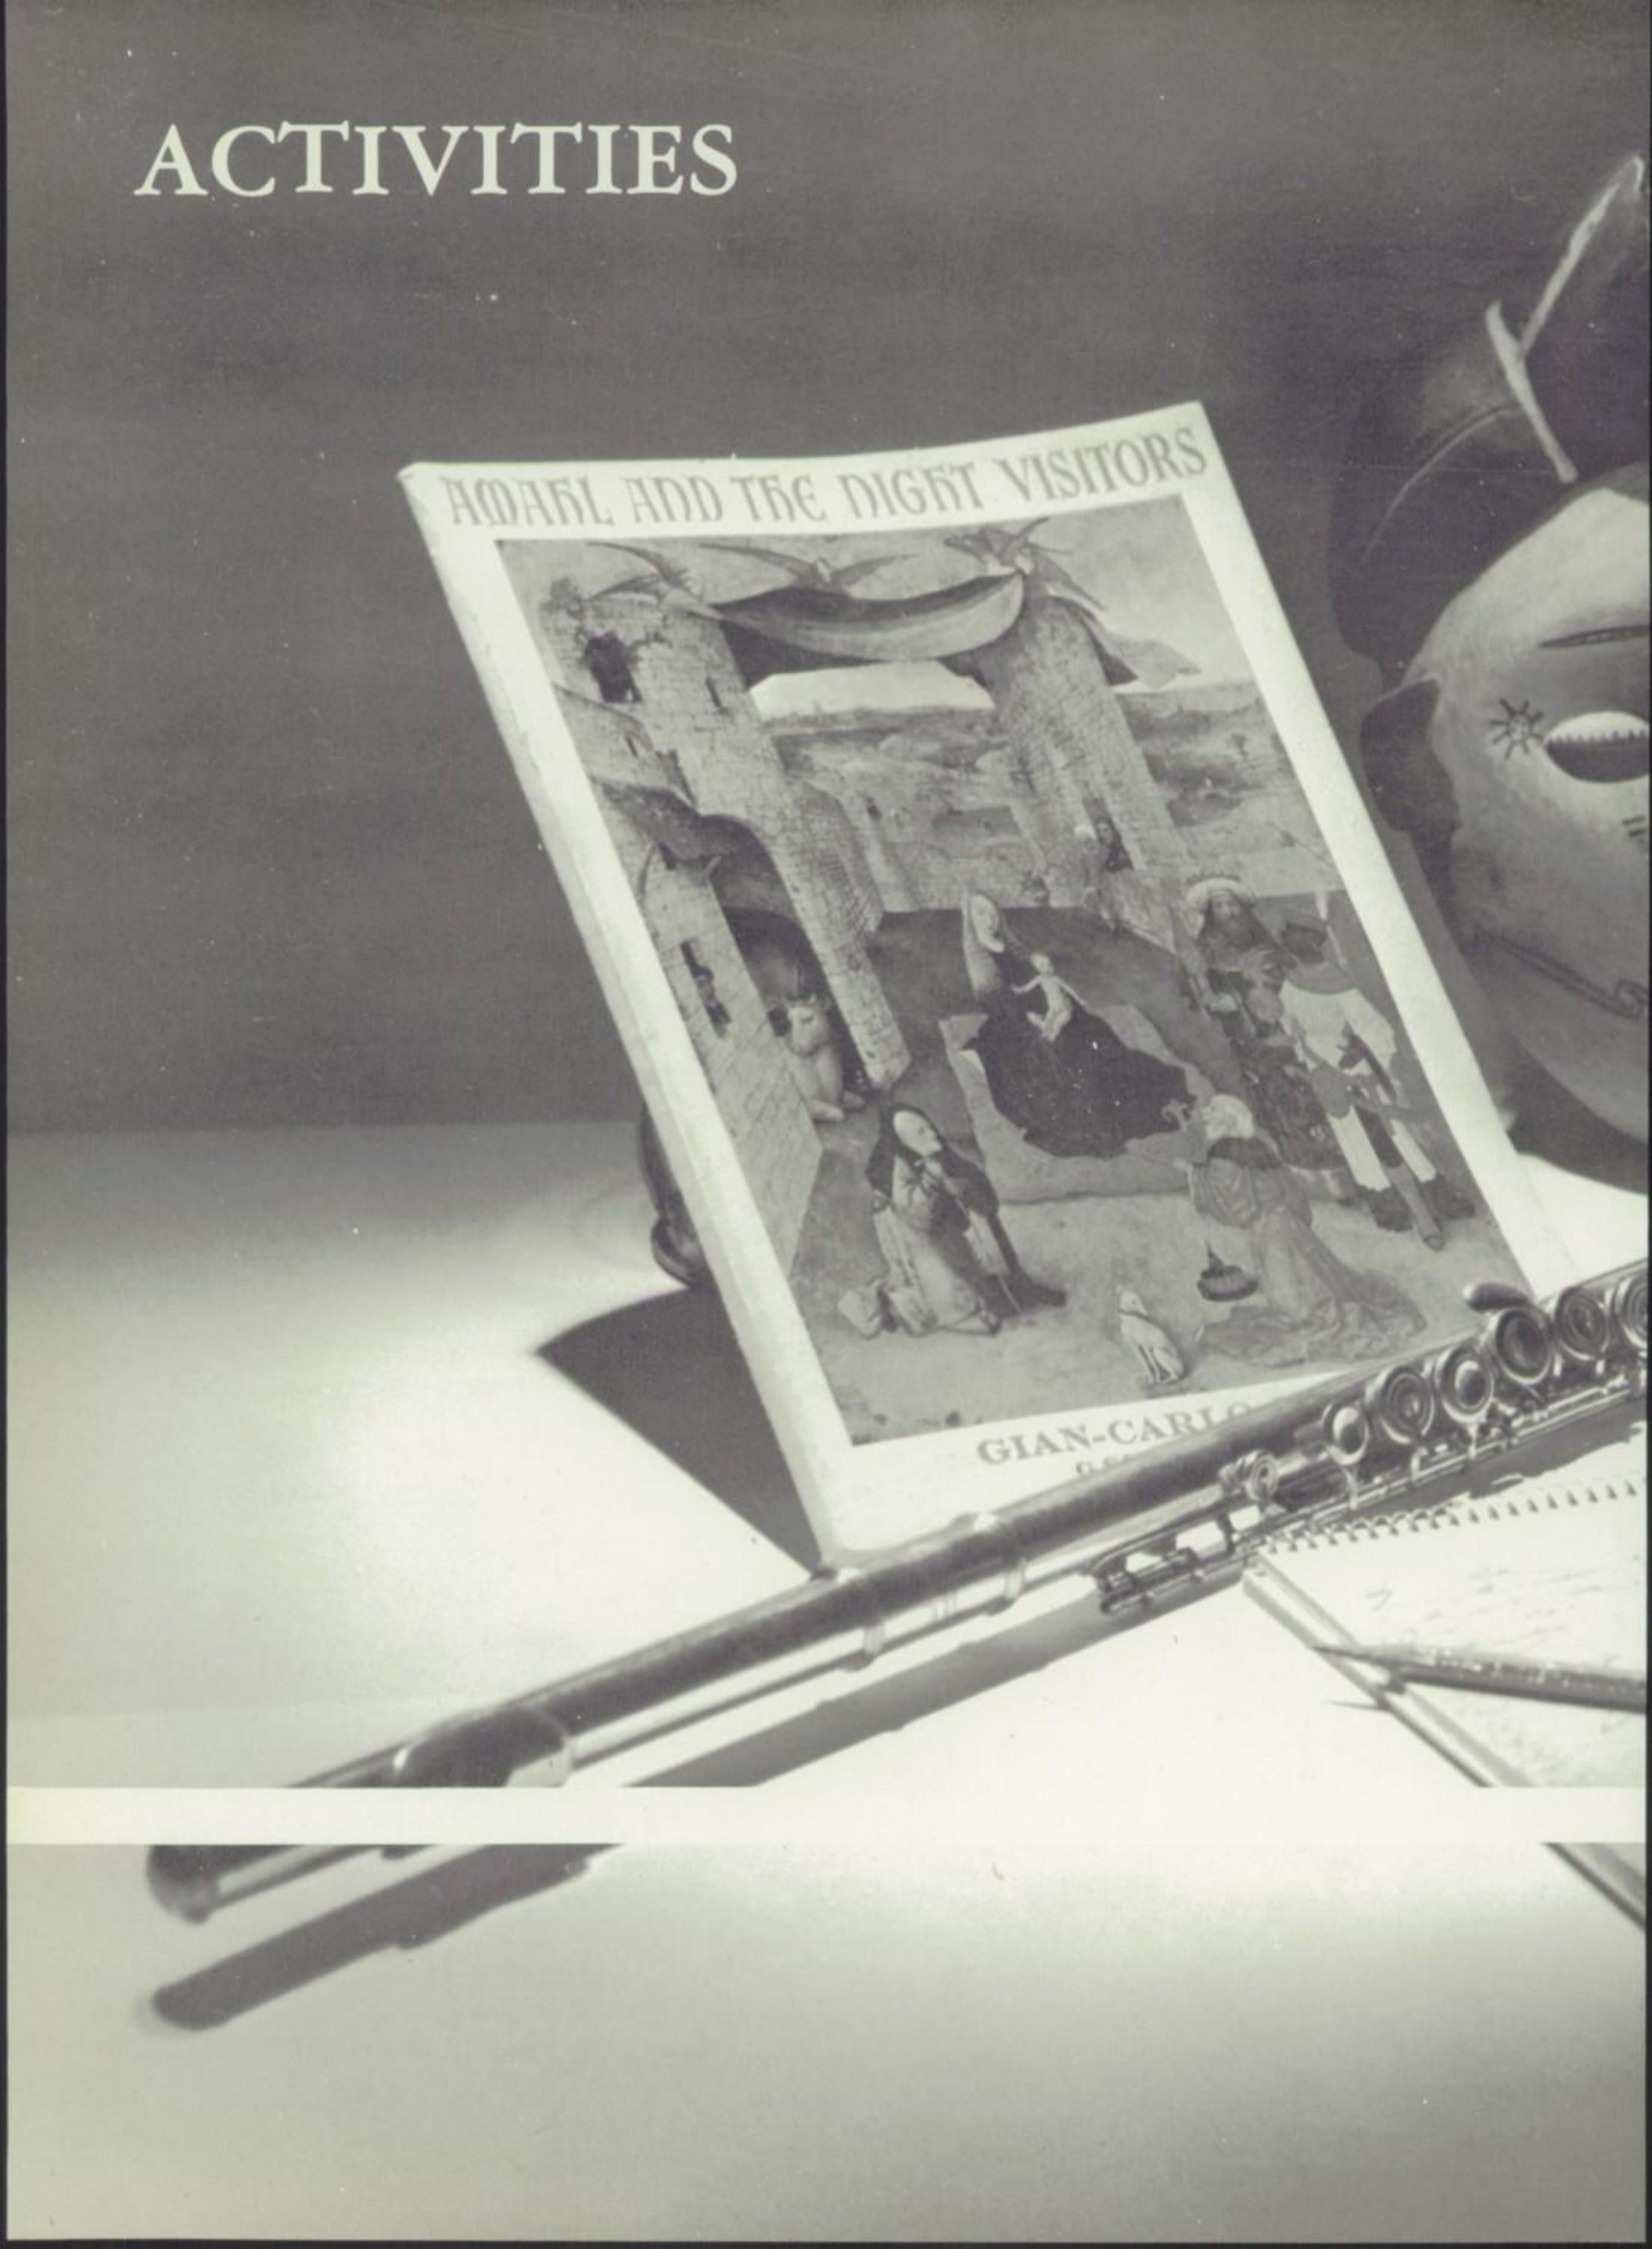
The concert will take place at Columbia High School on April 10,11, 1959



Education is not merely a scholarly, book-type procedure; it also teaches qualities of leadership, character, sportsmanship and dependability. It is through various activities that students cultivate social compatibility and, therefore, continue to grow in knowledge and wisdom.

ACTIVITIES



Various Committees Perform School Functions

Composing the Junior Ring Committee are Judi Shaubach, Dawn Hostetter, Dale High, Terry Wittenberg, Edward Foulke, Ann Burch, Kitty Fisher, Fred Burkhart, Judy Rineer, and James Huber.

These Juniors donated their efforts generously in choosing of the rings for the class of '60.

Bearing the regulation school emblem, the ring was chosen with only minor changes from last year's ring.

The Jacket Committee from the Sophomore class met at the beginning of the term to choose a style for their jackets.

Their choice was a box sleeve style in the school colors, royal blue and white. The sleeve featured a white stripe. School hats and emblems were also selected.

The committee members were Janet Esbenshade, Tessa Harnish, Carolyn Book, Dawn McCue, James Williams, Richard Goss, and Gary Groff.

For the past two years teachers and administrators, along with several students, have worked on the school evaluation program, a major project of this year. Much time was spent in committee work towards the March evaluation.

The students who served capably within the groups were Dale Denlinger, Doris Garner, Kay Louise Neff, Paulette Smith and Veda Kay Sollenberger.

Maintains Large, Varied Repertoire

Formed last year, the Dance Band now has, among its members (Left to Right) Mr. Reed, T. Pontz, J. Linville, J. Sultzbach, D. Garner, J. Witmer, R. Kilgore, J. Metcalf, W. Pontz, J. Saturen, T. Silar, J. Cramer, M. Biechler. Assemblies and various small dances were included in the performance schedule.

Junior Chorus Introduces a New Type of Concert

FIRST ROW: Mr. Snyder, J. Burkman, R. Byers, L. Minney, M. Enck, S. Dunlap, President; P. Wilson, Librarian; A. Eby, librarian; N. Groff, T. Lefever, D. Hammel, M. Procia, M. Huber. SECOND ROW: S. White, C. Huntz, M. Amspacher, J. Long, D. Barge, D. Boughman, J. Steiner, D. Bensinger, D. Herr, C. Bubb, A. Hershey, N. Neff, D. Brenneman, B. Lewis. THIRD ROW: B. Henry, K. Rineer, M. Shoop, R. Ziegler, G. Gearoff, L. White, C. Toule, E. Henry, P. Gehman, B. Just, D. Dunlap, F. Landis, L. Smeltz, R. Esbenshade. FOURTH ROW: K. Fry, L. Lutz, J. Pyfer, N. Sangrey, R. Barr, G. Weaver, L. Hostetter, J. Roth, J. Groff, B. West, J. Buckwalter, A. Longenecker, F. Bezzard, P. Fager.

Senior Chorus also needs a waiting list of experienced singers, who are ready to take the positions in the soprano, alto, tenor and bass sections of the chorus when they are vacated by Seniors in the spring of each year. The Junior Chorus, under the direction of Kenneth Snyder, gives practical experience to underclassmen in order that they might one day assume the senior position.

The Junior Chorus is composed of 65 students, all of whom are members of the seventh, eighth and ninth grades. All students interested in joining the organization were permitted to do so without a tryout to determine their musical ability. Mr. Snyder did this in order that he might give everyone so interested the opportunity and experience of singing in a chorus.

The Junior Chorus met weekly during the Thursday activity period. Elected officers for the year were Susan Dunlap, president; Claudia Bubb, vice-president; Eloise Denlinger, secretary-treasurer; and Alberta Eby and Patricia Wilson, librarians. The chorus also had two outstanding accompanists, Nancy Groff and Bonnie Snyder.

For many months the chorus rehearsed for the annual Christmas Program on December 11. The Junior Chorus sang "A Christmas Carol," "Yes, There Is A Santa Claus," "Birthday of a King" and a special combination arrangement of "Silent Night" and "Adeste Fidelas."

Along with the Junior Band, the Junior Chorus presented a Junior High Concert, on April 24. The concert was the first of its kind ever presented in the high school.

Junior Band Pursues Busy Schedule

Senior Band had to be backed up by an organization which prepared students having musical ability to fill the chairs vacated by departing Seniors. Junior Band possessed this quality, and its members showed promising ability as prospective Senior Band material. Both bands were directed by James Reed.

The 34 students in the bandwere kept busy preparing for their many activities, highlighted by the Junior High Concert, which was introduced this year. The Junior Chorus and Junior Band worked together in the presentation of the concert.

In addition to the combined concert, the Band prepared several lively arrangements of well-known marches for their participation in the Strasburg Halloween and Memorial Day Parades.

The position of drum majorette was filled by Tessa Harnish, a member of the sophomore class. This was the second year in which such a position was part of the Junior Band.

Assistants to Mr. Reedwwere Eloise Denlinger, librarian; Claudia Bubb, assistant librarian; Donald Pryer, property manager; and Leroy Lutz, assistant property manager.

The Band met every Tuesday during activity period in the auditorium. Officers are elected once a year.

The Junior Band helped to add a fine musical atmosphere during several assembly programs.

"Pioneer" Involves Combined Effort

Meeting twice a week, the yearbook staff is classified into four main departments dealing with copy, pictures and art work. Under the leadership of co-editors, Bonnie Adams and Donna Denlinger, and advised by Mrs. Esther Swick and Miss Shelby Rice, these sections worked closely with each other. The departments with their respective editors are literary, Donna Miller and Kathryn Krechtler; photography, Linda Witmer; art, Kathleen Weaver; and typing, Joyce Evans.

The departments are in turn subdivided into sections dealing with the various phases of school. The sections and their particular coverage are as follows: Academic year, the courses of study; administration, faculty and classes, self-explanatory; activities, synopsis of the functions of each organization; athletics, sports, and feature, other extra-curricular activities.

Juniors on the staff are given the opportunity to work for experience in the department of their choice. They are trained for the coming year when, as Seniors, they will be responsible for the yearbook.

The business section of the Pioneer, under the direction of Melvin Butler, was in charge of all the typing, finances, and selling of advertisements, patrons and subscriptions. Editors in the business section are Edith Poe, business manager; Barbara Malcolm, financial manager; Irene Long, circulation manager; Joanne Kendig, advertising manager, and Doris Shaubach, subscription manager.

FIRST ROW: J. Ferguson, assistant advertising manager; E. Poe, business manager; B. Malcolm, financial manager. SECOND ROW: J. Kendig, advertising manager, D. Shaubach, subscription manager; D. Journalism Students Develop Talents

Through Limelight Participation

In the cumulation of their cultural maturity many students develop their ability in the field of journalism by participating on the staff of the school newspaper, the Limelight.

To be eligible for staff membership, a sophomore journalism course must be completed with at least a "C" average. Editors are chosen in their senior year after they have proven their writing ability in the junior year by serving as reporters for the news, feature and athletic departments.

The actual writing staff, greatly aided by the Business Department in financial and advertising management, put out eight regular issues plus an extra school evaluation issue printed early in the spring. "The Limelight" received a 1958 first-place rating by The Pennsylvania and Columbia Scholastic Press Associations.

Tenth grade journalism students, although not given actual published writing experience, are taught every phase of newspaper writing, for they are the future leaders of the "Limelight" staff.

Reporters in the various departments are given their assignments by editors who proofread or re-write the story, add a headline and then turn it over to the typists before sending it to the printers where it will be set up in type. The editors check again the final copy at the printers before the paper is distributed to the students.

Student Council Promotes School Service

Even in the form of activities, education must be divided into a healthy balance of work and play. Some organizations exist purely in a serious vein so that they may be of some service to school life.

The Student Council, consisting of delegates from the student body, meets weekly to discuss and decide upon which would be the best social and educational activities to sponsor for the student body.

During the year this organization, faculty-advised by Robert Winters and William Bohlin, has worked and planned numerous social activities such as the Christmas semi-formal, the election of a Halloween queen, dances after basketball games, movie nights and dress-up and courtesy day. The latter was in connection with the Lancaster County Student Council Convention, to which Lampeter-Strasburg played host on November 21.

To provide a more solemn element in the students' life, the Student Council held several devotional assemblies during Holy Week.

Youth Day in Government and student teaching day gave the pupil understanding by doing.

An eagerly-awaited highlight of the Student Council's work is a foreign exchange student program, for which the Council is currently raising funds.

National Honor Society Holds Induction

Character, scholarship, leadership and service were acknowledged at the National Honor Society Induction ceremony held February 20, 1959. Eight students were pledged into the society during the annual assembly.

The Seniors chosen by the faculty for membership were Bonnie Adams, Donna Denlinger, Linda Witmer and Thomas Wright, while the four Juniors inducted into the society were James Huber, Kay Louise Neff, Norma Witmer and Terry Wittenburg.

The four Seniors who restated their pledge taken at the 1958 induction ceremony were James Brubaker, Joyce Evans, Larry McComsey and Donna Miller.

The pins and certificates of membership were presented to all newly-inducted members by supervising principal Robert L. Adams. The Reverend John D. Long, pastor of the Church of the Brethern, on Charlotte Street in Lancaster, was the guest speaker.

Before the induction, four members defined the requirements for membership into the National Honor Society: character, scholarship, leadership and service. As each was defined, a candle was lighted to symbolize the never-ending presence of that requirement in a member's life. Then, as a permanent record of his pledge, each member in turn was required to sign his name and date of induction on the Lampeter-Strasburg chapter scroll of the society.

During the ceremony a musical selection was sung by Bonnie Adams, James Brubaker, Donna Denlinger, Joyce Evans, Donna Miller, Linda Witmer and Thomas Wright. Kay Louise Neff was accompanist. The local group was under the direction of Jack L. Ryan. Mrs. Alma Snyder was in charge of the induction ceremony.

Safety League Controls Student Order

FIRST ROW: B. Andrews, lieutenant; L. Witmer, lieutenant; J. Eckman, secretary; B. Mellott, secretary; M. Herr, E. Groff, H. Amspacher, captain. SECOND ROW: S. A. Buckwalter, B. Adams, M. Slaymaker, J. Rinier, J. Lefever, D. High, L. Denlinger. THIRD ROW: A. Shreiner, T. Templeton, N. Groff. FOURTH ROW: C. Shimp, R. Hammons, L. Brubaker, L. Ross, J. Huber, Mr. Jeddic, advisor.

School patrolmen, always a necessity, create order out of the milling crowds of students.

The patrol members, selected annually by faculty advisor, Edmund Jeddic, assisted in enforcing the school safety laws. Under the guidance of Helena Amspacher, patrol captain; Burnell Andrews, Linda Witmer, Jane Eckman and Betty Mellott, Lieutenants; and Marion Herr, Robert Funk and Edna Groff, Sergeants, the league curbed the often-excessive exuberance.

Frequently, a patrol court was held by the Safety League in order to instill in the students the importance of school laws. Occasionally these warnings went unheeded, and the pupil returned once again to Patrol Court.

Within their group, patrol members had discussions, viewed films, made booklets on Civil Defense and assisted in the regulation of students in fire and air raid drills. They also sponsored a lost and found locker, into which all misplaced articles were put.

Librarians Volunteer Services to School

In their development, students must learn to accept responsibility and cultivate their talents. Student librarians, while rendering their services to the school, gain valuable experience in the duties of actual librarians. The forty-five pupils who serve in the library contribute at least one period of their time per week. Although the organization is not a club, students voluntarily join in September of each year.

A major event of the year was a field trip taken on November 7 to the convention of the Student Library Association of Pennsylvania, held at Millersville State Teachers College. While there the Lampeter-Strasburg librarians were presented with a door prize, the book, STARS IN HER EYES by Betty Cavanna.

Pioneer Scientists Begin Their Science Club

Science, in its technical stages, may appear to be too complex for the Junior High student's unorganized capabilities, but science in itself does not begin in the highly developed branches; it begins with the fundamentals of nature and the universe, and gradually becomes more advanced as the knowledge is accumulated and digested.

In an attempt to teach these science fundamentals, the Pioneer Scientist's Club, under the guidance of Miss Jane Dale, was organized for Seventh and Eighth Grade students. The group made several field trips to view the various phases of nature. In an attempt to better understand science, students planned and completed several projects during their activity period meetings.

FIRST ROW: D. Wittenberg, D. Hess, J. Baumbach, F. Shultz, J. Geyer, R. Chambers, Miss Dale. SECOND ROW: J. Hallack, D. Kaufman, A. Keen, T. Myers, S. Richards, J. Bell, C. Heisler, W. Singer, M. Dorsey. THIRD ROW: W. MacDonald, M. Calder, O. Easton, C. Diaco, T. Boyle, R. Miller, D. Shissler.

Junior Science Club Concentrates on Nature

In the present-day trend toward technical training and scientific education, students must early in their high school career be given the fundamentals of science. Ninth and Tenth Grade students have already had a small taste of this science basis and many have liked it enough to want to display and further their interest outside their regular science courses. It is for these students that the Freshman and Sophomore Science Club has been organized.

The Club, which meets every Thursday during activity period, has had two major projects for the year: a bulletin board display and a solamouder terranium. Those elected to lead the group are Immo Sulyok, president; Phillip Weaver, vice-president, and Larry Witmer, secretary-treasurer.

FIRST ROW: F. Brubaker, P. Weaver, Mr. Raymond, I. Sulyok, L. Brubaker. SECOND ROW: K. Zook, E. Livengood, B. Dorsey, D. Himmelreich, J. Snyder.

Senior High Science Club Gives Informative Demonstrations

Since science is one of the major concerns of our education system, it is not surprising that the Senior High Science Club gave its all in meeting the demands of interested scientific students. All phases of science from dissection to the laws of motion were covered.

Donald Deppeller, a faculty advisor, guided and instructed the members.

Projects, group discussions, guest speakers and field trips composed the main activities of the club members. One particular attraction was the trip to Wyeth laboratory.

From time to time many demonstrations were given by the students themselves. One on hibernation was found to be not only interesting but also highly informative. A rock collection was discussed and ways and means of collecting were expounded. Another demonstration consisted of the properties of ultra violet light.

One quite different phase of the "test tube twirlers," as the Senior High Science Club members are called, was that they cooperated with the school health program by distilling the water which is necessary for the sterilization of medical instruments.

FIRST ROW: G. Brendle, D. High, president, L. Brubaker, vice president, V. K. Sollenberger, secretary-treasurer, Mr. Deppeller, C. Wagner. SECOND ROW: D. Good, R. Houser, J. Cope, L. Brackbill, L. Eberly, J. Michael, J. Bowers.

F. F. A. Takes Advantage of Improved Farming Technique

FIRST ROW: C. Shimp, Sentinel; S. Reinhart, Treasurer; B. Andrews, V. President; J. Groff, President; K. Groff, Secretary; R. Landis, Reporter; R. Funk, Chaplain; Mr. Myers, Advisor. SECOND ROW: C. Evans, R. Metz, C. Bauman, D. McCauley, E. Blank, M. Brackbill, J. Wiker, J. Shertzer, G. Book, E. Livengood, J. Good, K. Meck. THIRD ROW: K. Denlinger, P. Welk, M. Brenneman, G. Ressler, T. Deacon, J. Huber, R. Brenneman, L. Risser, M. Pickel, C. Shultz.

In every vocation, men having progressive ideas are urgently needed. Farming is no exception. If creative minds and inventors were not constantly divising new agricultural methods and implements, farmers would still be using hand tools instead of the elaborate, modern machines which greatly increase mechanical advantage. Fortunately farmers were and still are progressive in their outlook and in their eagerness to take advantage of the most improved farming techniques.

In order to take advantage of those advances, people must be available who are willing to inform all interested individuals.

The Garden Spot Future Farmers of America is one of the many agricultural clubs which performs this service. George Myers, club advisor, met with the club on the first Thursday of every month in the Lampeter-Strasburg agriculture department.

The club is unique in that every*hing learned can be immediately put to practical and advantageous use on the individual farms.

Club members learn many and various factors of farming; the proper rotation of crops, methods of soil conservation and replenishment, ways to combat insect pests, the breeding and feeding of prize livestock and dairy cattle, methods of planting crops best suited to certain varieties of soil, the production of superior plants through hybridization, the care of farm machinery, barns and other equipment--plus a host of other skills which are prerequistes to good farming.

An assembly program, a father and son banquet, and participation in National Livestock Shows rounded out the curriculum. The organization is both "down to earth" and enjoyable.

Junior F. F. A. Follows the Course of Its Parent Club

SEATED: H. Herr, Sentinel; J. Brackbill, Treasurer; K. Sharpe, V. President; D. Graybill, President; S. Eshleman, Secretary; J. Gier, Reporter; J. Groff, Chaplain; Mr. Myers. SECOND ROW: D. Smith, G. Weaver, R. Wanger, R. Eshleman, S. Toms, P. Groff, H. Bauman, D. Frye, L. Brennamen, R. Lefever, C. Herr, D. Rohrer, C. Metz, R. Myers, L. Brubaker. THIRD ROW: J. Houser, J. Herr, R. Rhorer. ABSENT: R. Minney.

Many clubs are directly affiliated with a major department. The Junior F.F.A. Club is an activity of this type. Its main aim is to enable boys in Junior High to become better acquainted with agriculture. It also allows them to determine what jobs are available in agriculture, to learn farm and dairy breeds, and to become familiar with farm crops and soil and water conservation.

Much of the information is imparted through discussion groups, guest speakers and motion pictures.

On the whole, the Junior F.F.A. is a miniature set-up of the Senior F.F.A. Both are further steps in insuring a more modern and bountiful agricultural program.

Boys' Homemaking Club Is Novel Addition to School Activities

SEATED: R. Johnson, W Aumont, R. Nissley, R. Myers, D. Heiser. STANDING: A. Krause, Mrs. Weaver, K. Groff, T. Hampton, H. Witmer, M. Reinhart, J. Groff, L. Leachy, M. Pickel, R. Funk, R. Hurst, R. Silar.

The young men participating in the Boys' Homemaking Club are not effeminate--just wise. Under the supervision of Mrs. Barbara Fisher and Mrs. Lou Etta Weaver, the members have cultivated skill in the arts of homemaking.

A rotation system is used by which the program varies from cooking to sewing.

Sewing instructions include the mechanics of the Sewing machine, simple hand stitches, basic seam construction and the use of a pattern. As a result of this class, the boys produced aprons, chef hats, vests and ties, and the skill of ironing a shirt and other, more simple pieces.

The art of cooking, has basic foundations, which the boys established this year. The future chefs prepared breakfasts, lunches and cook-outs, with the boys themselves acting as consumers and judges of their arts.

Tumbling Develops Well Co-ordinated Girls

Many students, as well as adults who have completed their formal education, are lacking in vitally needed exercise in its true form, merely because they are too busy with immobile activities or jobs.

Several girls have joined the Tumbling Club to get workouts one morning a week. The purpose of the club is to teach the fundamentals of tumbling--correct positions and landings. Teaching and learning proper rules for this activity are especially necessary, for error may result in a critical injury.

The future of the club is unlimited, for everyone can become an expert tumbler with the aid of ability and supervised practice.

FIRST ROW: J. Witmer, S. Leachy, P. Jones, S. Lownsberry, L. Shetter, S. King, D. Cramer, K. Fisher, K. Faust, B. Herr, F. Groff, P. Rankin, Y. Beacham, P. Leonard, V. Pineda. SECOND ROW: C. Rohrer, D. McComsey, B. Bowers, D. Eshelmen, Miss Vottero, K. Brown, B. Dull, D. Harkum, D. Dumbach.

Wrestling Club Looks to Future for League

In order to overcome a lack of physical exertion, approximately twenty boys in grades seven through ten have joined the Wrestling Club, advised and instructed by faculty member Gerald Raymond. The club is a fairly new organization, just having reached the end of its first year of existence.

The purpose of the club is to create enough interest in students so that in the future a competitive league with other high school clubs may be organized.

The club, which meets in the gymnasium for practice, rather than in a formal method, convenes weekly during the Thursday activity period. The boys are taught such skills as the bear hug, full nelson, leg pull and half nelson.

FIRST ROW: G. Weaver, M. Wertz, R. Minney, R. Wissler, G. Ranck, G. Hershey, Mr. Raymond, B. Grimisey, K. Sharp, D. Rohrer, M. Trout. SECOND ROW: G. Keeports, S. Eshelman, S. Toms, S. Dieter, R. Lefever, G. Hanna, J. Elder, W. Ross, J. Heath, L. Trout, D. Gibbs, L. Brubaker, L. Work.

"Studio III" Broadens Students' Horizons

FIRST ROW: S. Lownsberry, D. Barge, B. Gorrecht, M. Landis, E. Alexander, M. Barr, M. Slaymaker, S. King, secretary-treasurer. SEATED: G. Ranck, vice-president, V. K. Sollenberger, president. STANDING: SECOND ROW: J. Graeff, S. Leachey, G. Stapf, M. Byers, S. Dunlap, K. Miller, J. Farster, J. Bowers, N. Witmer, Miss Rice.

Culture and Drama seemingly go hand in hand, so to further their personal culture, the members of "Stage III" have been learning the fundamentals of dramatics. Throughout the year the club has staged many one-act plays as well as acquired knowledge of back-stage procedures and the art of make-up and costumes.

Sophomore and Junior students interested in dramatics were eligible for membership in the club, which was under the guidance of Miss Shelby Rice. Officers of "Stage III" were Veda Kay Sollenberger, president; Gregory Rank, vice-president; and Susan King, secretary-treasurer.

Stage Crew Performs Vital Functions

FIRST ROW: S. Buckwalter, T. Myers. SECOND ROW: D. Rineer, L. Reese, D. Herman, L. Witmer, B. Adams, J. Willauer, J. Martin, R. Smith, D. Heiser, A. Smoker. THIRD ROW: J. Mentzer, R. Neisley, J. Stage settings and preparations are as vital to a production as the talent is. The stage crew, which met during the Tuesday activity period, was responsible for lighting, sound, props and scenery. The latter two the crew constructed.

The stage crew was composed of members from Sophomore, Junior and Senior classes. Headed by Albert Smoker, president, Lester Ross, vice-president, and under the guidance of Mr. Robert Winters and Mr. Glenn Bailey, the stage crew managed the settings for plays, assemblies, band concerts and chorus programs.

F. T. A. Participates in Teaching Investigation Projects

As occasionally occurs, one decides his career early in life with a never faltering desire to fulfill that decision, but as it is true in most lives, one can never quite go so far as to make the final choice.

Teaching is a field in which many are needed and wanted either in elementary and secondary education or in specialized branches.

The Future Teachers of America Club exists for the purposes of aiding interested students to make that final choice and to give them information and actual experience in teaching if they are already positively sure of their chosen career.

During the year the club participated in many activities, such as Student Teaching Day; decorated school rooms in a teaching theme and invited many guest speakers to advise them in their investigation of teaching.

FIRST ROW: R. Knotwell, L. Witmer, president; Mrs. Kammerer, advisor; S. A. Buckwalter, secretary-treasurer; B. Adams, vice-president. SECOND ROW: J. Metcalf, C. Bombach, J. Berry, J. DeForrest, A. Krause, T. Wittenberg, Y. Saturen, N. Witmer.

F. H. A. Girls' Work Towards Their Ultimate Goal of Homemakers

Good homes and efficient homemaking are the backbone of our American democracy. The Future Homemakers of America Club exists for the purpose of proving that homemaking techniques are vital, as well as being both fascinating and exciting.

President Joyce Miller called the meeting to order the first Thursday of every month. Club advisors were Mrs. Lou Etta Weaver and Mrs. Barbara Fisher.

Programs for the meetings consisted of various jewelry demonstrations, guest speakers and discussion on some phase of home economics. The girls also had a needlework guild and baked cookies for the school evaluation in March.

In additon the club activities were rounded out by a social program, highlighted by the combined F.H.A. and F.F.A. Christmas Party.

FIRST ROW: D. High, Mrs. Fisher, A. Leaman, J. Miller, president; C. Landis, vice-president; S. Brackbill, secretary; R. Myer, L. Denlinger, treasurer; I. Goss; M. Lewis, M. Slaymaker. SECOND ROW: A. F. N. A. Formed to Increase Interest in Medical Fields

An interest in nursing and other related medical fields has brought about the formation of a Future Nurses of America Club. Its purpose is to acquaint the members with all the various phases of nursing and to help them prepare for their future profession.

Throughout the nation, colleges and other related medical schools are placing rigid requirements on all applicants. Therefore, it is pertinent for anyone interested in a nursing career to be well versed in the requirements and to be prepared to meet them.

To be eligible for the club pin, each member must serve as an aid to the St. Joseph's Hospital in Lancaster, complete two of the electives, such as a daily check of the health room or a bulletin board display, and attend meetings which were held.

During their work in the St. Joseph's Hospital the girls visited the operating room to see the aspects of surgical nursing, which is one of the many forms of nursing specialization the girls become familiar with.

In addition to their volunteer work in the hospital, the club members made a field trip to one of the local hospitals.

Also, several of the regular meetings were highlighted by guest speakers from various colleges and hospital schools of nursing.

Varsity Club Promotes Good Sportsmanship

FIRST ROW: D. Goss, H. Witmer, secretary, H. Sangrey, treasurer, L. McComsey, president, D. Rineer, vice president, T. Wittenberg, D. Denlinger. SECOND ROW: K. Book, R. Silar, B. Weaver, J. DeForrest, B. Rineer, J. Keemer, S. Tout, M. Rohrer, M. Reinhart, F. Burkhart, Mr. Krause.

When giving a description of the average member of the Varsity Club, one must say that he has a pleasing personality, a clean cut appearance and is an all-around good athlete.

To be a member of this club a boy must have earned a varsity letter in a school sport and the respect of his fellow classmates and friends. Also, the student must have the approval and vote of all other club members.

Good sportsmanship and spirit have always been emphasized by the club and its advisor, Coach Edward Krause.

The Varsity Club has aided school spirit by selling pennants, Pioneer booster pins and tickets for basketball games. Through such projects as sponsoring buses to away basketball games, making posters and operating the concession stand at home basketball games, the Varsity Club has helped to better the school and its activities.

Other activities include the Varsity Sweetheart Dance, the Varsity Hop and the annual Gym Show. The main field trip of the Varsity Club took them to Hershey to see The Harlem Globetrotters basketball game.

As one of their final yearly contributions, the club assisted in the annual May Day program by taking charge of all the sports activities and contests. Members arranged the fields for the school events and prepared areas for the high jump, races and disc throws.

Junior Red Cross Creates Small Articles of Cheer

A sympathetic and "willing-to-help" individual is in demand just as much as the vivacious personality--especially in the Junior Red Cross Club. These Junior High students, under the direction of Mrs. Ruth E. Skewis, met each week on Tuesday and Thursday during the activity period. Through the holiday favors, bedroom slippers, stuffed toys, scrapbooks and tray mats, the Junior Red Cross aided sick and needy people.

Since Junior Red Cross attracted fifty members this year, the club was divided into two groups, each meeting once a week.

The club is secondary to the city wide Red Cross Council. It is through this organization that all articles are distributed. The Red Cross Council holds a monthly meeting of representatives from each school, who report the news to their respective clubs. The highlight of this meeting is the honor award given to the club member who has been most cooperative, reliable and most diligent in her work.

The club was lead by Arlene Havercamp, president; Patsy Silar, vice president; Nancy Blank, secretary, and Paula Leonard, treasurer.

Not all clubs exist for a purely social purpose. The Clerical Club members are given the opportunity of volunteering their office services to any teacher of their choice and to assist that particular teacher in business details throughout the year.

Besides typing, the secretary also performs for her respective teacher, many other duties, such as using the mimeograph machine, dittoing papers, and taking letters.

This is the second year in which the Clerical Club has offered its services. The girls find the task every enjoyable. Mrs. Ruth Mellinger, club advisor, feels that it develops in the girls a sense of responsibility in receiving orders and carrying them out correctly and efficiently.

A Christmas party was held for club members the day before Christmas vacation and refreshments were served.

The club took a tour through the main offices of Armstrong Cork Company to give the members a general idea of the labor procedure in an office of a large company.

ATHLETICS

Ranking third in the league this year, the hockey squad attained a record of four wins, two losses and one tie. The team, capably composed of six returning varsity players, compiled this record under the leadership of coach Jeannette Vottero.

With zest, determination, and spirit the girls worked and practiced to obtain their third place position. Next year, since several letter winners are returning, the season should prove to be successful.

Playing on the new field for the first time, the soccer team compiled a record of two wins, eight losses and one tie. Although they won only two games, the boys displayed teamwork and spirit throughout the season. Seven lettermen aided the team.

Lampeter-Strasburg's two victories were gained by overcoming Donegal. L. S. defeated the Indians 1-0 in the final minute of play to acquire the first victory. On the last day of the season L. S. again defeated Donegal by an 8-1 margin. L. S.'s strength lay in a tight defense which held back opponent's score low throughout the season.

During most of the season the forward line was led by left wing, Dick Rineer; left inside, Dale Longenecker; right wing, Martin Maertz; right inside, Dale Denlinger; and center forward, Barry Weaver. Paul Decker also alternated in the line.

The backfield consisted of Larry McComsey and Don Eckert at the fullback positions; Herb Witmer at center halfback and Bob Silar, at right halfback. Sheldon Tout, Larry Reese, and Gerald Miller also saw action in the backfield. Don Sweigart defended the goal.

The outlook for next year is brighter, because of the return of ten lettermen.

Varsity Cheerleaders Spark Driving Force

Behind every winning team, there is a driving force. In the case of this year's varsity basketball team it was the varsity cheerleaders who urged the team to the Section Two championship.

Perfecting new formations and cheers, Veda Kay Sollenberger, Kitty Fisher, Sandy Good and Shirley Eshleman, led by co-captains Joyce Evans and Donna Denlinger, comprised a very capable cheering group. This fact was noticeably attested to by the varsity win-lose column.

Miss Jeanette Vottero, the advisor, did much to help the squad with its cheering. These six energetic girls deserve a cheer for every fine performance they gave.

Jr. High, J. V. Cheerleaders Arouse Spirit

With pom-poms and healthy voices the Junior Varsity cheerleaders encouraged their team on to many victories. Led by Captain Kay Barrett, the J.V. squad, composed of Ruth Ann Myer, Linda Shetter, Judi Shuabach, and Tessa Harnish, demonstrated ability and co-ordination at all the games.

Diligent practice appeared to be profitable, as the J.V. cheerleaders displayed many new ideas, not only in cheers, but in varied motions and formations.

Win or lose, the Junior High basketball team had the assurance that their five cheerleaders were behind them, cheering all the way. During time calls and intermissions, the girls were on the court going through one of their many exuberant cheers.

Under the leadership of their captain, Patsy Jones, the squad, comprised of Patsy Foulke, Linda Witmer, Sandra Coppock and Sandra Lownsberry, proved themselves ready and willing to increase the morale of the team. Although the team's victories and spectators were few, the girls succeeded in keeping the spirits of the players high.

Crown with Undefeated Record

This was the varsity Pioneer's big year. For the first time in four years, an indomitable L. S. team beat all opponents to capture the Section Two crown.

Coach Edward Krause had six returning lettermen, including last year's starting five. These boys were Buddy Keemer, Dick Rineer, Bob Rineer, Chris Lefever, Larry McComsey and Barry Weaver.

Buddy Keemer, Herb Witmer and Dick Rineer were the high scorers of the team.

Chris Lefever and Bob Rineer were the playmakers on the team while Buddy Keemer capably controlled the backboards.

Barry Weaver, Larry McComsey and Dale Longenecker did a commendable job of substituting for the starting five.

Larry Reese, Ken Groff, Don Herrington, and Don Sweigart composed the rest of the squad.

An excellent season is forecast for next year. Herb Witmer and Chris Lefever will be the only returning letter winners, but several of this year's junior varsity players will move up to positions on the varsity squad.

The Pioneers beat Warwick, their strongest opponent, 88-41 and 65-25, while Conestoga Valley was also defeated by scores of 76-51 and 64-35.

J. V. Basketball Posts Successful Record

KNEELING: D. Winters, R. Goss, R. Knotwell, J. Cope. STANDING: R. Brenneman, D. Bolbach, J. Williams, D. Eckert, T. Kilgore.

Although Coach Edmund Jeddic had only one letter winner returning to the Junior Varsity basketball squad this year, he was fortunate in retaining several non-letter winners plus gaining experienced members of the previous year's championship Junior High team.

Good team spirit and a determination to win enabled the team to have a highly successful season. Hard practice also proved valuable as the boys posted a (16-2) record for the year. The squad's only losses were to Conestoga Valley and Warwick.

Leading scorers for the year were Don Herrington, Jim Williams and Dick Goss, while Roy Breneman and Dave Bolbach controlled the backboards. Ken Book and Don Sweigart aided the team as key substitutes. Other members of the JV squad were Dick Knotwell, Tom Kilgore, Don Eckert, Joe Cope and Dale Winters.

Don Sweigart and Don Herrington were given the opportunity to substitute in several varsity games.

Junior High Team Displays Ambition

FIRST ROW, Kneeling: J. Groff, R. Good, D. Wilson, L. Book, H. Connel, R. Hammel. SECOND ROW: B. Ward, D. Witmer, J. Chesters, R. Geyer, P. Weaver, B. Wentz, V. Krechtler, J. Krantz.

With little experience and no height, the Junior High basketball team did not make an impressive showing in league play this year. However, under the direction of Coach Jere Schuler, the boys displayed a great desire to play basketball.

Freshmen Ronnie Good and Bob Ward led the scoring attack for the Pioneers, while Dale Witmer, an eighth grader, was the top rebounder on the squad.

Other boys to see action were Bill Wentz, Richard Geyer, Phil Weaver, Van Krechtler, Darrel Wilson and Bob Chesters.

Baseball Lettermen Produce Successful Season

FIRST ROW: J. Kaufman, D. Winters, M. Ranch, G. Groff, C. Shedd, R. Knotwell, D. Eckert. SECOND ROW: H. Sangrey, C. LeFever, B. Weaver, J. DeForrest, H. Witmer, L. McComsey, R. Rineer, T. Kilgore. THIRD ROW: F. Burkhart, M. Rohrer, R. Goss, D. Herrington.

Because of the return of eight varsity lettermen, the Pioneer baseball team had a successful year. During the season these lettermen proved their ability by chalking up a four-win, four-loss.

One of the important victories of the season was the game against East Lampeter, in which the Pioneers came from behind to win 11-9. Dick Rineer's homer in the eighth inning produced three runs to win the game.

Pitching for the Pioneers this year were Jim DeForrest, Dick Goss, and John Kaufman while the catching position was filled by Barry Weaver.

The outfield was composed of Larry McComsey, Harold Sangrey and Joe Cope. Jim DeForrest and Dick Goss also played these positions while not pitching.

Herb Witmer, Paul Decker, Fred Burkhart and Chris Lefever occupied the infield positions.

Held September 24, 25, and 26, the West Lampeter Community Fair attracted many. Shown here is an aerial view of the fairgrounds.

Thirty-Fourth Annual Lampeter Fair

West Lampeter's thirty-fourth annual community fair was held on the fairgrounds at Lampeter, September 24, 25, and 26, 1958. For the first time Seniors alone operated the class stands in the two-year old pavillion.

Wednesday's events included music by the Lampeter-Strasburg Band and a "tractor trouble shooting" contest. Robert Landis represented LSHS in the latter contest, which was based upon the contestant's skill at locating and fixing mechanical trouble in his specific tractor.

FFA livestock and produce judging contests were Thursday's all-day events. Featured Thursday evening were the antique auto show and livestock parade.

The schedule for Friday included a horse show and pig race, after which fair activities concluded Friday evening with a calf-roping contest and the second half of the horseshow.

The climax of the fair was the crowning of Cynthia Landis, a Senior, as "Livestock Queen."

Two Senior Casts Offer Evidence

"Father Knows Best," a three-act comedy, was presented by the Senior class on Friday night, November 7, 1958. Directing this delightful comedy was Mr. Jacob C. Wine. The cast included (left to right) Robert Funk, Albert Smoker, Janet Lefever, Sheldon Tout, Kenneth Groff, Doris Garner, John Groff, Judy Ferguson, John Herr, Joanne Kendig, James DeForrest, Bonnie Adams, Kathy Weaver, Sara Ann Buckwalter, Kathryn Krechtler, Jo Ann Grove and Donna Miller.

Junior Represents L. S. on Hallowe'en

Shirley Eshleman, Junior

Dawn Hostetter, a Junior, was selected by the student body as the school's "Hallowe'en Queen" in an assembly, October 17. Dawn's demonstration of talent was an accordian solo entitled "Accordian Boggie."

Dawn was crowned queen at the Senior dance, "Harvest Hop," the same evening. Dawn was chosen runner-up in the Spooknacht Queen Contest at McCaskey High School, October 31, while competing against candidates from city and county schools.

At L. S. all girls who were interested in the contest appeared before a screening committee composed of Miss Shelby Rice, Mrs. Barbara Fisher, Jacob C. Wine, James Reed and Jack Ryan. Contestants were then judged by the student body on their poise, leadership, appearance, talent and character.

The contest was sponsored by the Student Council.

Juniors Are Chosen as Pioneer Royalty

The Junior candidates, His Majesty, Herb Witmer and Her Highness, Dawn Hostetter, received their respective crowns for King and Queen of the Yearbook in an all-school assembly, November 21, 1958.

Every purchaser of a yearbook was given a ballot which contained the names of the candidates from each class. Unlike in previous years, the contestants were chosen individually rather than in couples. However, the Junior class was successful in both positions.

The results, which were not divulged until the assembly, were announced by Irene Long and Edith Poe, circulation manager and business manager respectively.

Barbara Musser and Robert Funk, Seniors.

Carolyn Book and Donald Eckert, Sophomores.

Linda Shetter and Ronald Good, Freshmen.

Judy Jackman and Thomas Krause, Seventh Grade.

Chorus Stages "Amahl and Night Visitors"

Under the direction of Jack Ryan, the Senior Chorus presented, on December 11, "Amahl and the Night Visitors," a one-act Christmas operetta by Gian Carlo-Menotti.

The lead role of Amahl, a poor crippled boy who is restored to health through a miracle during the visit of three wise men, was sung by Clifton Carter. Shirley Eshleman portrayed his mother. The three kings, Kasper, Balthazar and Malchoir, were played by Thomas Wright, John Metcalf and James Brubaker, respectively. Dale Groff portrayed the kings' negro page.

Veda Kay Sollenberger, as a shepherd girl, performed an interpretive dance during the king's visit to Amahl.

Accompanist for the production was Kay Louise Neff. Solos were rendered by Bonnie Adams on the oboe, Jack Saturn on the bassoon and Dorothy Garber on the bass clarinet.

"Amahl" sets, designed by John Bowers, were constructed and painted by the Industrial Arts and Art Departments.

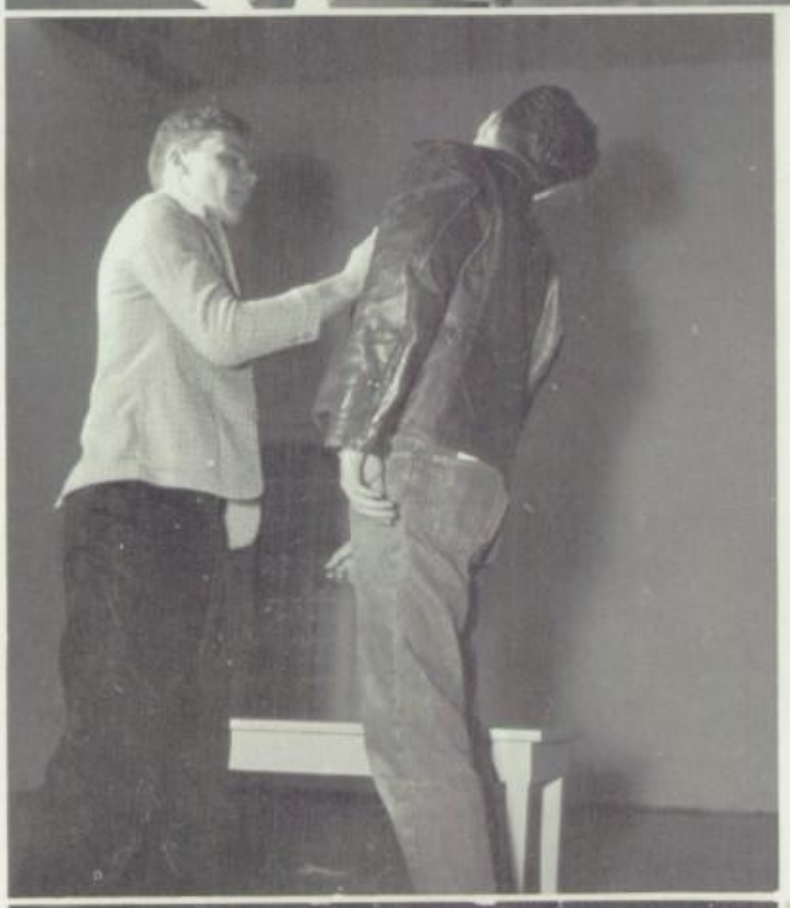
Junior Class Presents



On March 6 and 7, 1959, in the high school auditorium eighteen Junior class members presented a three-act play entitled "Dino." The play was written for initial presentation on CBS-TV's "Studio One" by Reginald Rose, winner of the Society of Television Arts and Sciences "Emmy" award, and was adopted for the stage by Kristin Sergel.

The plot of the production centers around a young man named Dino, who, when on the verge of becoming a life-time criminal, is given the opportunity for a more satisfying life.

The various characters were portrayed as follows: Andrew Krause, Dino; Veda Kay Sollenberger, Shirley; Anne Louise Understudies for the various minor roles were Ronald Mitchell, Thomas Pontz, Kay Barrett and Irene Long.

The performance was under the direction of Miss Olga Cvizic and Miss Shelby Rice.

Queen Rosemary Reigns Over May Day Debut

May 14, 1958, marked the debut of May Day at Lampeter-Strasburg. The crowning of Queen Rosemary Andrews, a senior, was the highlight of all events.

Following two morning classes, students were free to participate in various scholastic and athletic events, depending on their individual interests and abilities. In athletics the Freshmen won the Junior High division, while the Seniors took top honors in the Senior High classification.

Special activities prevailed in the afternoon. Following a parade of the Junior and Senior bands, with athletic winners and Queen candidates participating, the May Queen was crowned to reign over the remaining events.

The day was climaxed by favorable shouts from the students as the varsity baseball team defeated the faculty in a six-inning game.

North Goes Southern for a "Plantation Cotillion"

The velvety blossom aroma, the tall white columns and the trailing ivy vine with the smooth flow of music of the Hempfield dance band transformed the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel Brunswick in Lancaster into an antique southern setting for the 1958 Junior-Senior Prom, "Plantation Cotillion."

The highlight of the evening was the crowning of the King and Queen of the Prom--Joyce Evans and Larry McComsey--by the supervising principal, Robert L. Adams and his wife.

Following the banquet, also held in the Hotel Brunswick, the members of the Junior class presented a short entertainment program.

Parents of the Juniors and Seniors entertained the group with a post-prom party at the Strasburg VFW.

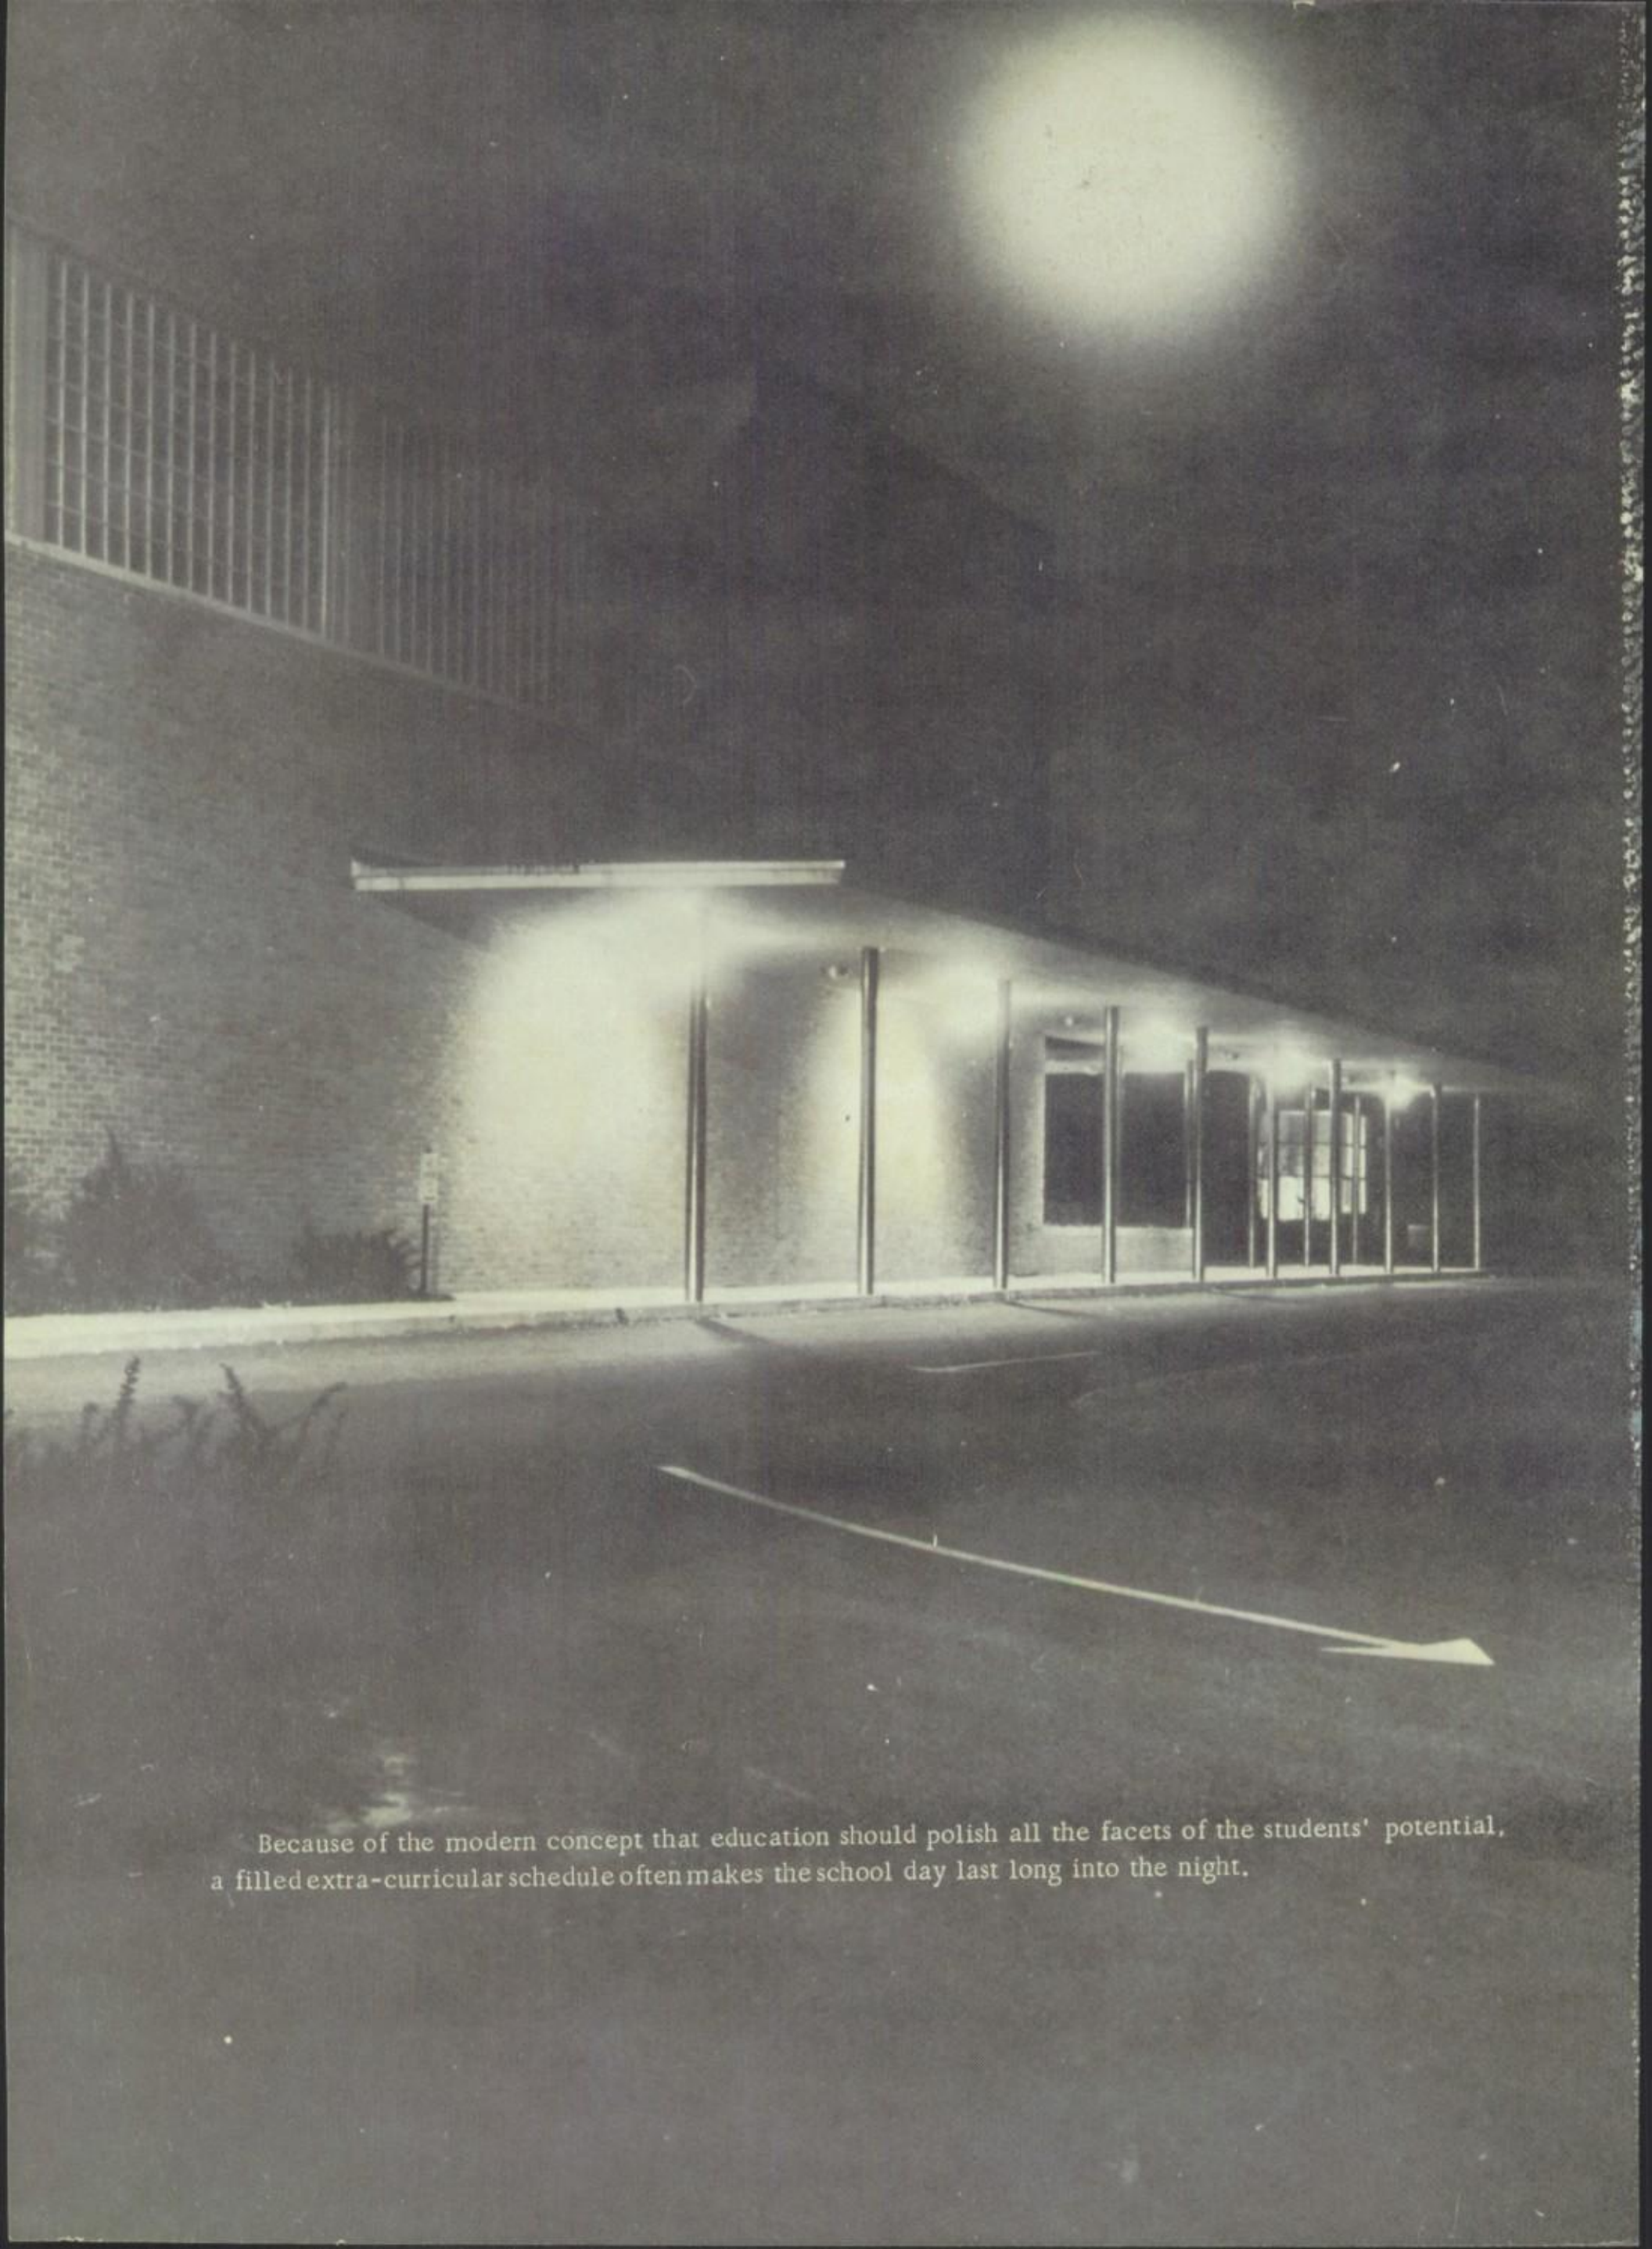
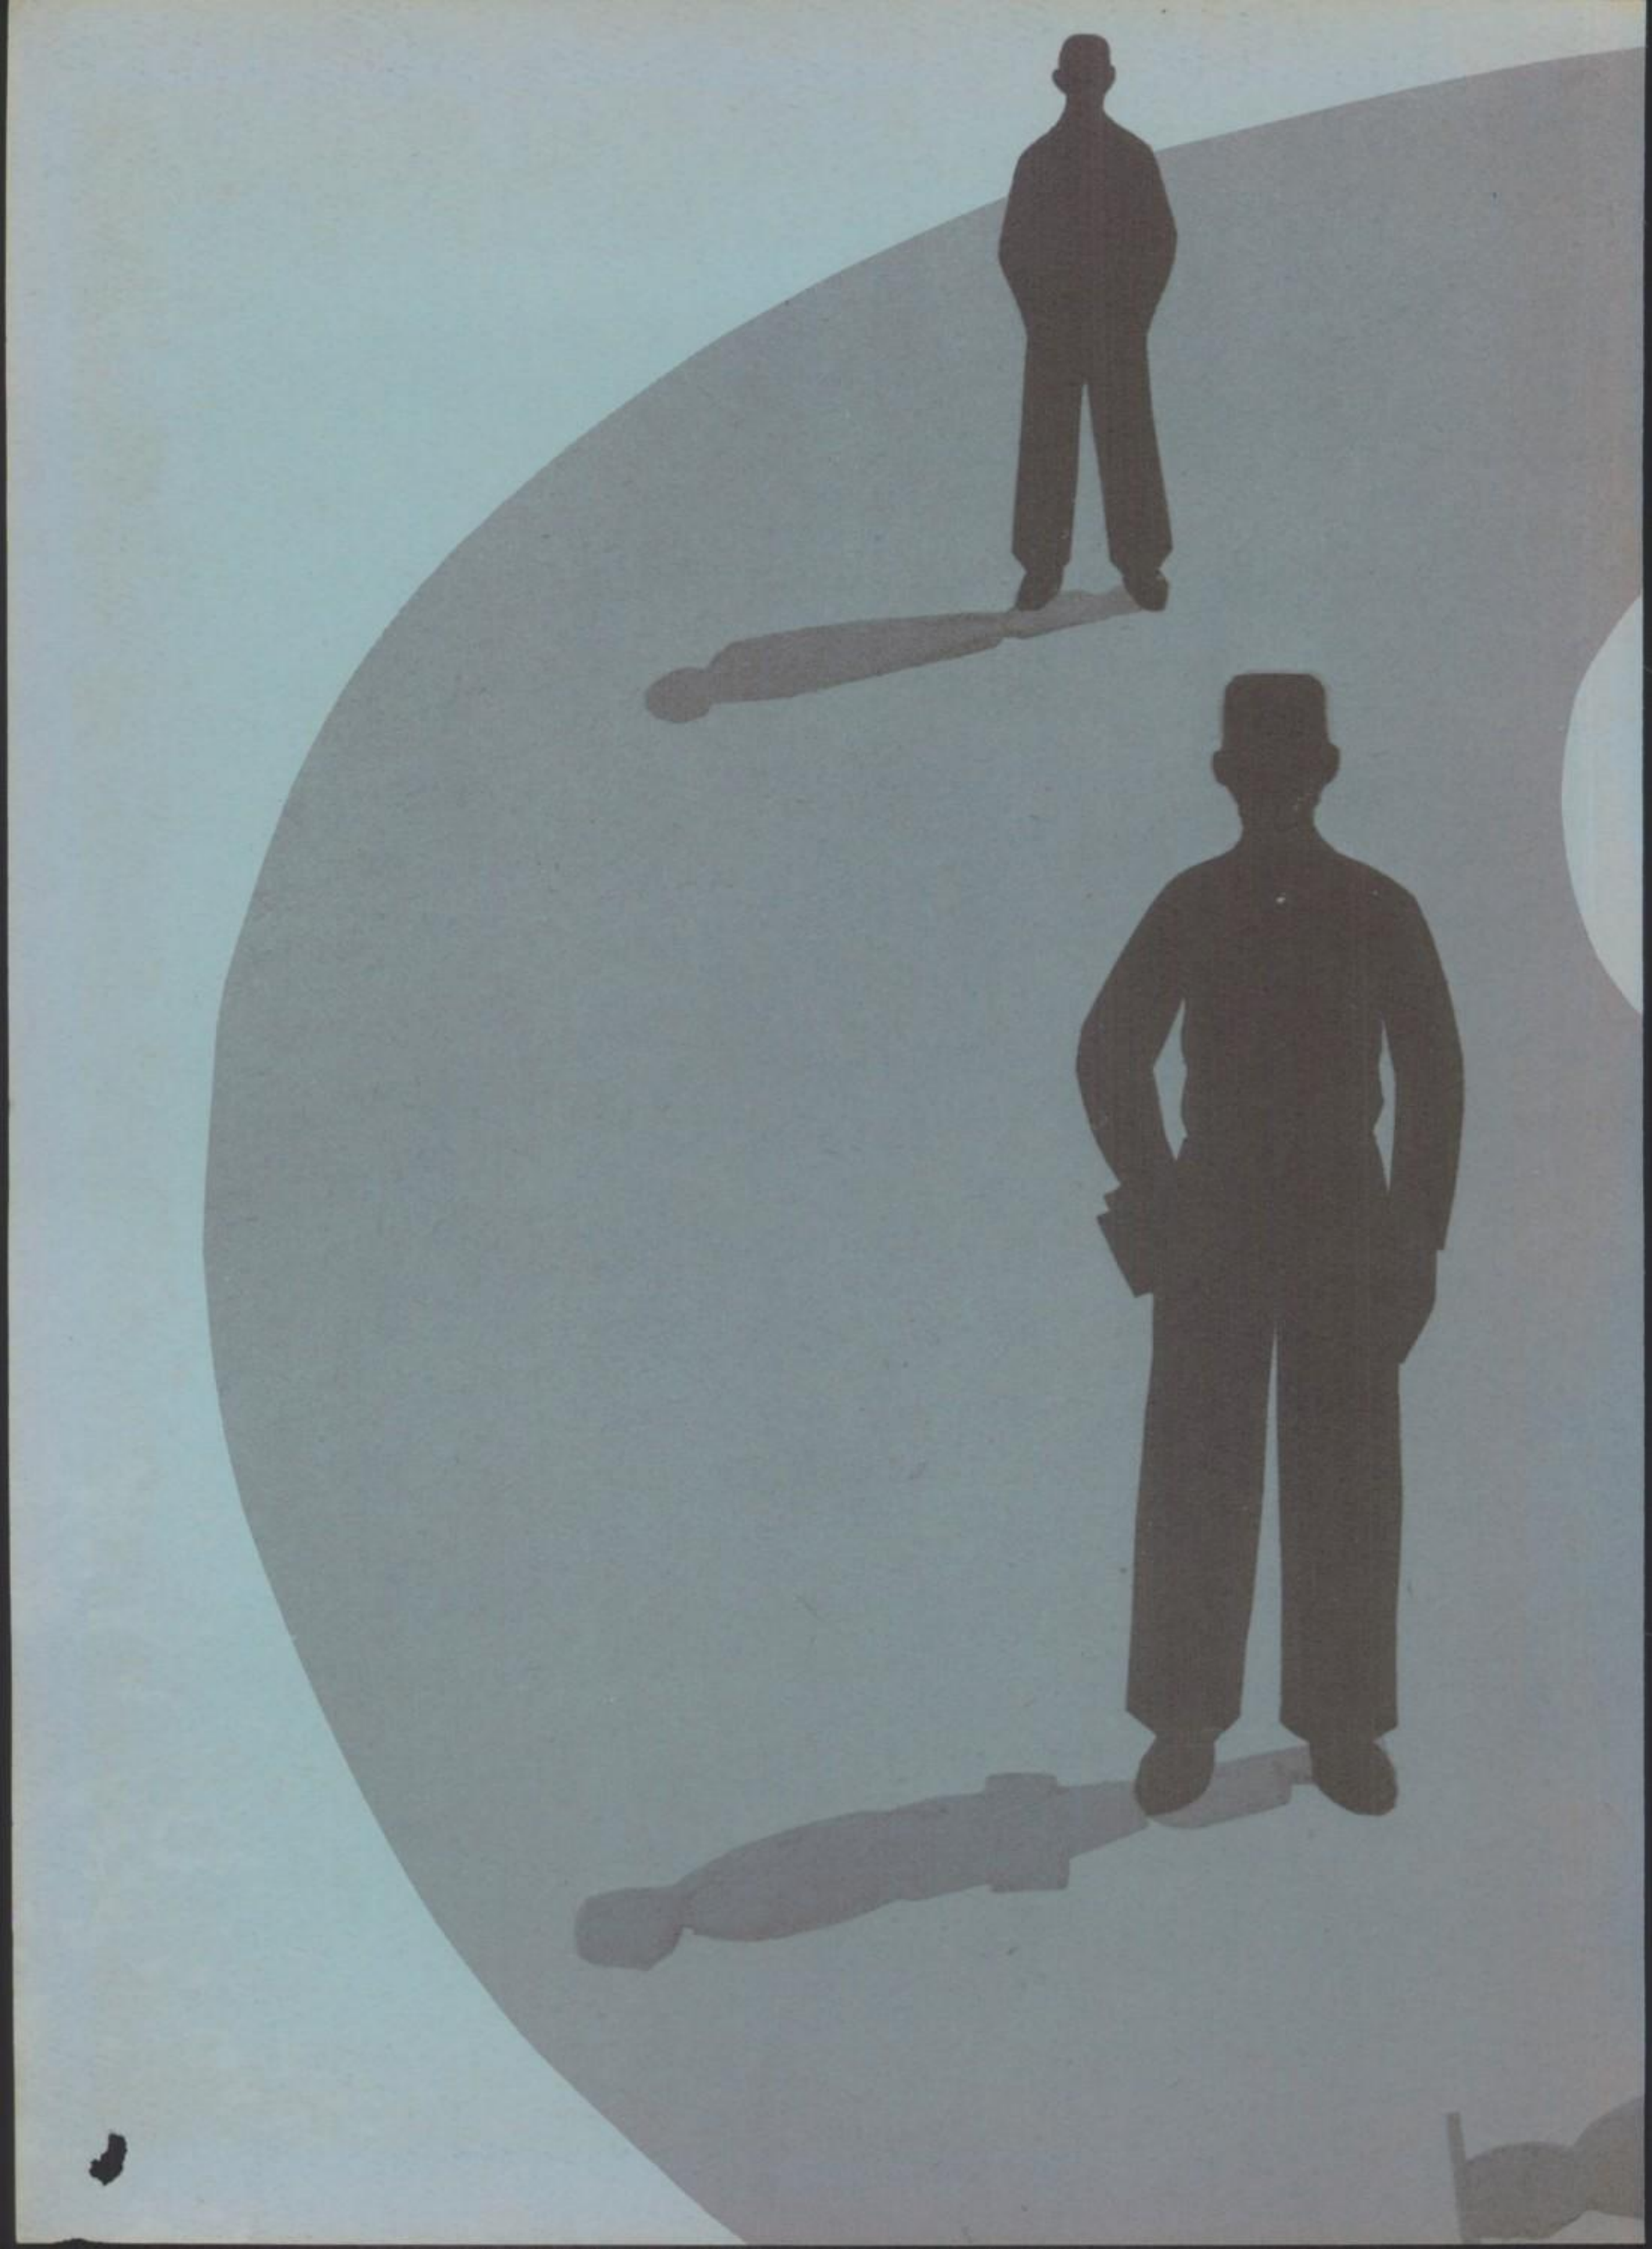
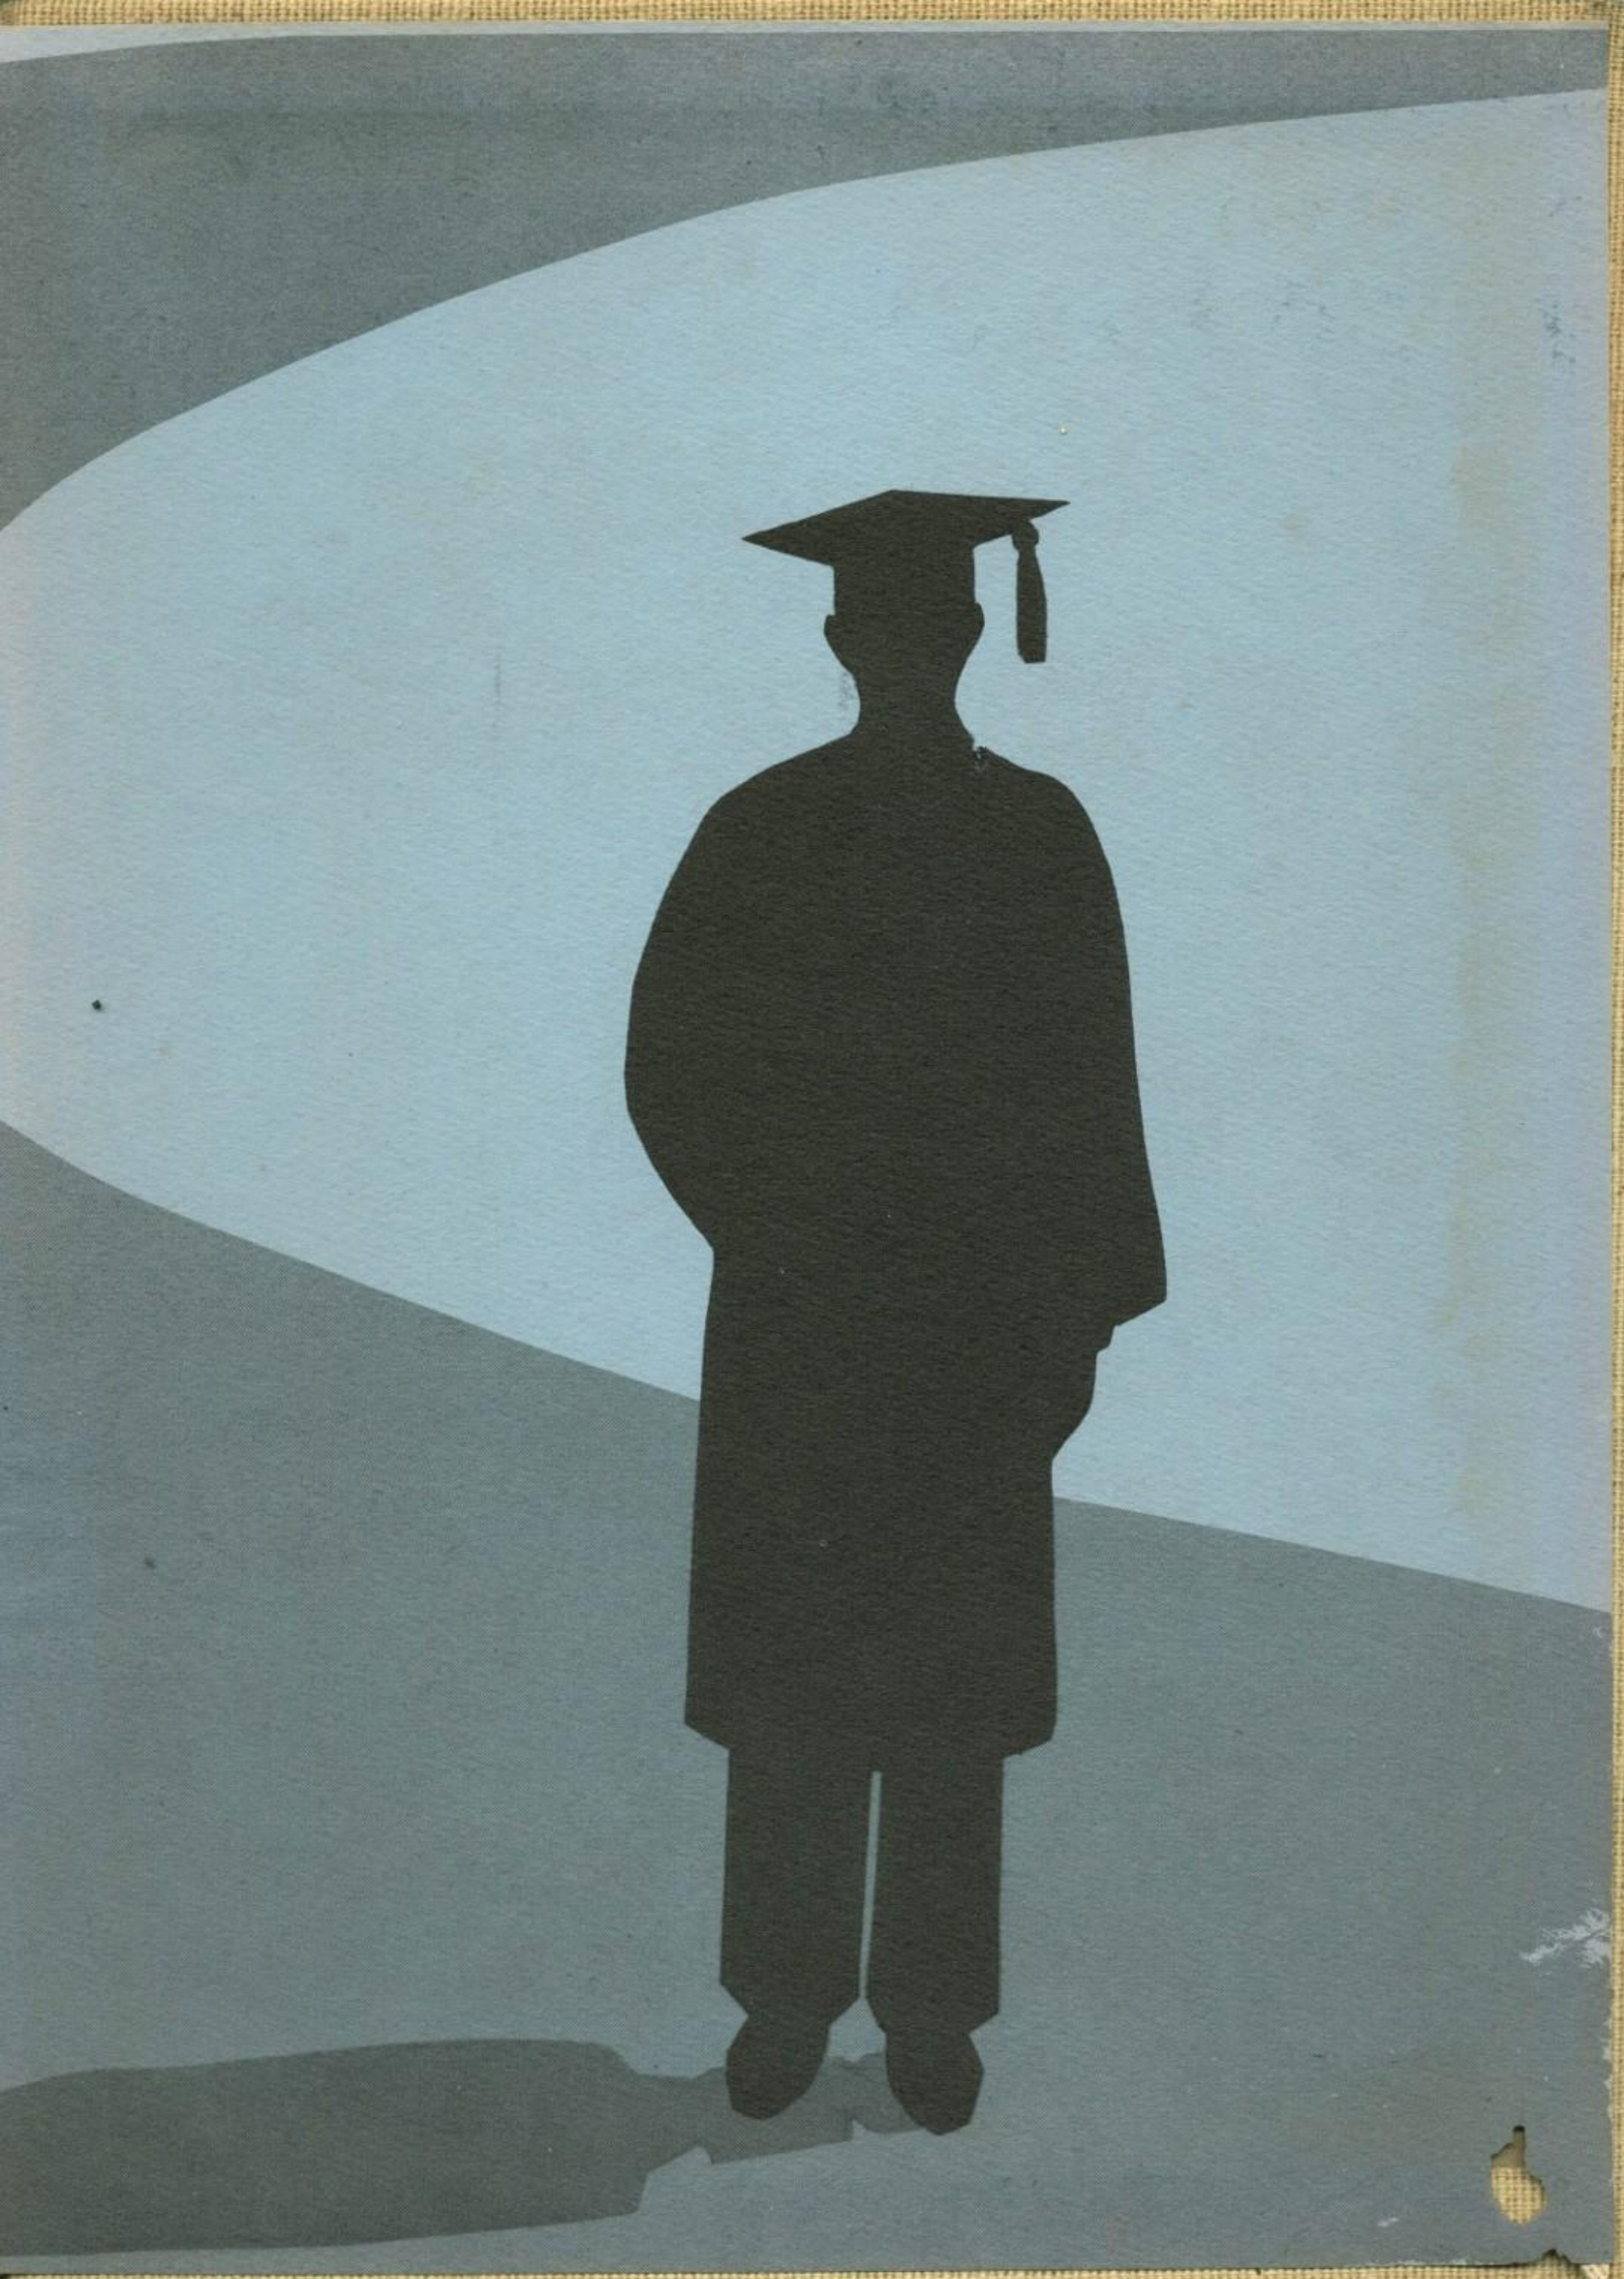
Salesmanship Class Participates in "Pioneer" Financing

FIRST ROW: B. Burkman, J. Trout, R. Shaub, R. Esbenshade, G. Hershey, A. Jacobs, F. Carpenter. SECOND ROW: J. Ruth, G. Buckwalter, A. Groff, D. Herr, M. Leaman, D. Garner, M. L. Barley, R. Hurst, M. Landis. THIRD ROW: G. Gordon, M. J. Herr, N. Groff, P. Young, J. Esbenshade, R. Bowman, B. J. Amspacher, D. Shaubach, B. Wilson, C. Book, N. Landis, J. Mellott.

Under the capable leadership of Melvin Butler, business education instructor, the Sophomore salesmanship class has helped with the financial department of the yearbook, by the selling of advertisements and patrons as a part of their salesmanship grade. The sales, under the direction of geographical committees, were made in the Lampeter and Strasburg townships and in Lancaster. The business staff of the "Pioneer" was in charge of business records and yearbook circulation.







Because of the modern concept that education should polish all the facets of the students' potential, a filled extra-curricular schedule often makes the school day last long into the night.
